Controversial Voice Contracts Cancelled

Locations For Transmitters Termed Waste

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—The State Department today cancelled the controversial contracts for construction of two Voice of America radio transmitters near Wilmington, N. C. and Port Angeneles, Wash.

The contracts have been under fire in a Senate investigation of the Voice program. They were suspended Feb. 17 but in the meantime substantial maintenance costs were still being incurred.

Outright termination was ordered by Dr. Robert L. Johnson, new chief of the International Information Administration, after consulting Voice advisory committees and technical experts.

Locations Under Fire

An announcement said he has not made a final decision whether construction would be resumed at some future date but that at this time it would not be justifiable to proceed.

The two stations, Baker East and Baker West, were designed to be the world's most powerful.

Engineers have told a Senate subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) that their location would subject them to atmospheric interference.

Would Have Cost 20 Millions

McCarthy has contended that selection of the sites looked like part of a deliberate attempt to sabotage the effectiveness of the big transmitters.

The two new stations were to have cost 20 million dollars.

Dr. Wilson Compton, former head of the State Department's International Information Administration, defended the project as part of a plan to pierce the Iron Curtain with anti-Communist broadcasts.

Flanders Labels Report Of Plane Attack As 'False'

WASHINGTON, March 20 (INS)—Sen. Flanders (R) Vt., accused the Air Force today of giving a "false report" on the exchange of fire between a Soviet MIG and a U. S. RB-50 bomber over the North Pacific last Sunday.

Flanders, a member of the Armed Services Committee, charged that the Air Force was "guilty, in effect, of waging psychological warfare on the people of the United States." He asserted: "This must stop."

Commenting on Flanders Senate speech, the Air Force said: "The Air Force has nothing to add to its statement except to emphasize the fact that at no time was the RB-50 closer than 25 miles to Kamchatka, and so was not in air space claimed to be under any national jurisdiction."

Defense Secretary Wilson was asked about the matter at a news conference, but refused to comment, saying it was something to be cleared up between Sen. Flanders and the Air Force.

The senator declared the Air Force version of the sky battle, in which both the U. S. and Russian planes escaped damage, probably was intended to "influence public opinion" by making the incident appear to be "an act of aggression."

The Pentagon announcement of the occurrence said the MIG opened fire on the American plane 25 miles off the Siberian Kamchatka Peninsula, and that the U. S. aircraft retaliated with bursts from its machine gun.

The senator said the Russians appeared to have been "discreet" in warning off a U. S. plane which had penetrated so close to Soviet territory.

USSR Makes New Gesture Of Good Will

LONDON, March 21 (Saturday) (INS)—The Foreign Office announced early today that Russia, in another surprise good will gesture, has agreed to intervene to obtain the possible release of Britons imprisoned by the North Korean Communists.

A spokesman said Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov had informed Foreign Secretary Eden that he would take up immediately with North Korea the question of the detention of Capt. Vyvian Holt, former British minister to South Korea and other interned Britons.

Molotov's offer to intervene came as an answer to a personal request made by Eden to Andrei Gromyko, Soviet ambassador to Great Britain.

Observers say Molotov's action as another possible indication that Russia may be tempering her belligerent attitude toward the West.

Both official and unofficial spokesmen said the Russian note expressing regret over shooting down of a British plane also might herald a lessening in cold war tension.

Countess' Live-Mouse Shoe Claim Angers Danish SPCA

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 20 (AP)—A claim by a Danish countess that she was the first woman to wear a shoe with a live mouse in the high heel has angered the Danish Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

According to newspaper reports here, live mice in transparent plastic shoe-heels have become a big hit with eccentric ladies in Paris this spring.

(The Copenhagen papers apparently went for a publicity gag by a Paris shoemaker who made one such pair just for a picture. Paris fashion experts said, in rather horrified fashion, that the mousy footwear certainly was not a modish rage.)

Countess Irene Ahlefeldt-Laurvig saw these reports and told a Copenhagen reporter she introduced the fashion at a Paris ball six years ago. She showed the reporter the shoe with the hollow heel that housed the mouse.

The society today announced that they would take action against Countess Irene. Said President Knud Jensen:

"We have requested, through our French sister organization, that a police charge be brought against the countess. Her offense may not be punishable in Denmark but the French should see if she could be charged according to their law. In any case, she should be barred from France in the future."

Countess Irene is not alarmed by the society's action.

"It was such a darling little mouse and it was the pet of everyone at the ball," she said. "I kept it in my shoe heel for about 30 minutes. Afterwards it fed happily on a big piece of cheese under a glass cheese cover. It is a strange thing to take such drastic steps because of this little mouse. I don't think the society will succeed in its efforts to have me barred from admission to France. No, sir."

4-Power Parley On German Air Safety Possible

BERLIN, March 20 (AP)—A new air of speed in handling German problems is blowing from Moscow to Berlin.

Allied officials here commented today that the new broom regime of Prime Minister Georgi Malenkov appears to have swept away some of the cobwebs of slow and ponderous handling that existed in Stalin's time.

Prime example, they said, is the case of the British bomber destroyed with its seven-man crew by Soviet jet fighters over the East-West frontier just eight days ago. The same night, before the British could get their own protest on file, Radio Moscow protested that the bomber had violated Soviet territory.

Joint Meeting Proposed

Within the next seven days, the Soviets here received the British complaints, obtained Moscow's views and last night rejected the protests as invalid. Nevertheless, Soviet Gen. Vassily Chuikov proposed a joint meeting to see if there is some way to avoid such air incidents in the future.

Informed quarters reported tonight the Western Allied high commissioners will meet in Berlin Saturday, March 28, to discuss a possible four-power parley on air safety over Germany. British officials in Bonn commented that a four-power meeting would be more desirable than a session limited to Russians and Britons, inasmuch as the Americans and the French likewise have their problems in the busy air between West Germany and Berlin over 100 miles of the Soviet zone.

Russian Speed Something New

Chuikov's proposal is of such far-reaching policy consequences that it must bear Moscow's official stamp. The British Foreign Office in London has already remarked on the apparently conciliatory air in the new Soviet attitude.

Veteran Allied authorities in West Berlin observed that a similar set of facts in the past would have consumed weeks of letter writing without a suggested solution.

One official surmised that Malenkov is much closer to the operating details of his government than Stalin was in recent years.

ROKs Turn Back Two Red Attacks

SEOUL, Saturday, March 21 (AP)—Soldiers grappled briefly in the mud and raiding planes searched low in the drizzling skies for the sight of Communist trucks Friday as the Korean War sputtered through its 1,000th day.

South Korean troops stood firm on the Western Front in a rainstorm against two small attacks by Chinese Reds on an outpost on Little Nori Hill, northwest of Yonchon.

F84 Thunderjet fighter-bombers caught 20 Red trucks in a convoy north of Pyongyang, the Korean Communist capital. Pilots said six trucks were destroyed and six damaged by bombing and strafing.

Screening Sabre jets drew no challenge from Red MIG15 jets.

Bohlen Controversy Rages

McCarran Says Dulles Overrode Security Chief

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) charged today that Secretary of State Dulles overrode objections of his chief security officer in backing Charles E. Bohlen for ambassador to Russia. Dulles promptly denied it.

The Nevada senator asserted the security chief, R. W. Scott McLeod, refused to clear Bohlen for the strategic diplomatic post, but that Dulles gave him clearance anyway in testimony before the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee Wednesday.

Dulles, in turn, said there was no difference between him and McLeod on the final evaluation of an FBI report on Bohlen's background. There is absolutely nothing in the report, the secretary said, which reflects on Bohlen as a loyalty or security risk.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) jumped into the argument with a declaration that Dulles' statement "would appear to be untrue" from what he knows of the situation.

"My information is in complete accord with what Sen. McCarran said," the Wisconsin senator told a hastily called news conference. "I know what's in Bohlen's file."

A reporter asked McCarthy if he thought Bohlen was a security risk.

"That's putting it too weak," the senator replied.

The sharp new controversy over Bohlen, a 48-year-old career officer in the State Department, began on the floor of the Senate, where McCarran made his charges.

When reporters arrived at Dulles' office for a previously arranged news conference, they found the secretary flanked by Sen. Wiley (R-Wis), chairman of the foreign relations committee.

Wiley's committee voted 15 to 0 Wednesday to approve Bohlen as ambassador to Moscow.

McCarran argued, however, that the Senate should not pass on Bohlen "until there is made available, for the inspection of any senator who desires to see it, the full and complete FBI report on this nominee." Dulles did not show the report to the committee, but merely gave his evaluation of it.

McCarran told the Senate that Dulles informed McLeod that he could not substitute himself for the secretary of state, and then "summarily" overrode him on the question of Bohlen's clearance.

If the facts are as he understood them, McCarran added, McLeod should resign and tell his story to the people.

Malenkov Gives Up Party Committee Job

LONDON, March 20 (AP) — N. S. Khrushchev, a fast rising Ukrainian Soviet politician, appeared tonight to have stepped into an old job of his boss, Prime Minister Georgi Malenkov.

The job is leadership of the powerful Central Committee of the Soviet Union Communist party.

The Moscow radio reported the committee met in plenary session March 14 "to accede to the request of the chairman of the USSR Council of Ministers (prime Ministers) G. M. Malenkov for his release from duties as secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist party of the Soviet Union.

$20,000 Haul

Man Armed With Acid Robs Ft. Meade Bank

FORT MEADE, Md., March 20 (AP)—A "tall, distinguished looking man" walked into a branch bank here today and held out a pint fruit jar with some kind of liquid in it.

"Smell it," he said. "It's acid."

He walked out with about $20,000 in a brown paper bag and disappeared somewhere in the maze of roads that lead to Baltimore on the northeast, Washington on the southwest and Annapolis on the southeast.

Military police, state troopers and FBI agents scoured the area for the 1949 or 1950 Mercury sedan in which he was believed to have escaped. They set up road blocks on the dozen roads out of this sprawling military reservation, stopping all cars and trucks to give their occupants a once-over.

It was 1.55 p. m., just five minutes before closing time, Stuart W. Dorset estimated, when the man walked into the bank, his fruit jar in one hand and a paper bag in the other.

He went up to Miss Hazel Gore, 29-year-old teller and held the jar under her nose.

Dorset, 24-year-old manager of the bank, stepped forward.

"He told me: 'Put the money in the bag or I'll throw the acid in this young lady's face?"

Dorset turned over packs of $20, $10, and $5 bills. He estimated it was about $20,000, but not all the money in the place.

The man slipped his fruit jar back inside his trench coat, got into a car parked near the entrance to the bank, and drove slowly away.

Coffee Drinkers Gouged Billions, Senator Charges

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa) said today coffee drinkers in the United States have been gouged billions of dollars.

Coffee prices are soaring again, he told the Senate, with the end of price controls.

Gillette revived a three-year old international controversy by contending that speculators in this country and South American nations, which supply most of the coffee, manipulated coffee prices sky high.

The senator said he will again ask Congress, as he did in 1950, to place trading in coffee under the Commodity Exchange Act. This amounts to government supervision of trading.

Iranian Premier Rejects Oil Offer

TEHRAN, Iran, March 20 (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, in a broadcast recorded from his bed, today rejected the latest British offer for a settlement of the Iranian oil dispute. In a triumphant vein, he declared Iran will win a "national victory" if she continues on her course.

But he left the way open to further negotiations, and expressed hope that Britain would make possible the restoration of diplomatic relations by adjusting her policy to the rising nationalism of many nations of the world today. Iran ejected British diplomats last October.

Mossadegh balked over the terms for compensation to the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company as had been forecast. The company's 60-year concession was cancelled and its Iranian properties nationalized in 1951.

Mossadegh said Iran was willing to pay for property seized. But he said Britain wanted compensation for her "enterprise" in Iran. Mossadegh's advisers have interpreted this as meaning the AIOC would claim compensation for profits it would have made in the future.

Gottwald's Successor Will Be Named Today

VIENNA, Austria, March 20 (AP)—Radio Prague announced tonight the Czechoslovak Communist Parliament will meet at noon tomorrow to elect a new president to succeed the late Klement Gottwald.

Gottwald, East Europe's most powerful satellite leader, died in Prague March 14, three days after he returned from the funeral of his friend, Joseph Stalin, in Moscow.

Matter Of Fact

Ike Is Expected To Approve Parts Of Air Defense Plans

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WAHINGTON, March 20 — As of today, the small number of men who know the real situation are betting that President Eisenhower will at least approve the most important parts of the air defense program that he is now considering.

As previously reported, this program, prepared under Air Force contract by an M. I. T. research group, Project Lincoln, is estimated to cost $16 billion to $20 billion in its entirety. Unfortunately, the most important parts of the program are also the most expensive parts, as may be seen from the shortest review of the scientists' program.

An early warning net must be thrown around the remote and almost inaccessible northern fringes of the hemisphere. The outer net must be connected with the inner net. Each part must automatically communicate with every other part. And all the parts must automatically guide the defenders to the attackers in the trackless spaces of the upper air.

By the same token, fighter air bases and guided missile launching sites must be arranged in echelon, from the air frontier to the American industrial heartland. Every attacker must run the gauntlet of many defenders, from the moment he passes the air frontier, until he approaches his target. The earliest possible warning, and the exposure of attacking aircraft to the maximum number of counter-attacks, are the twin principles of effective air defense.

Some of the scientists have proposed a larger version of the Manhattan District, to procure the needful quantities of radically novel equipment, and to fit old and new weapons into a single, unified weapons system. Project Lincoln and its offshoot, the Summer Study Group, are also understood

Wilson Predicts Armed Forces Slash By July 1

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — Secretary of Defense Wilson said today he does not think we are fully prepared to defend this country. But he said he still believes cuts can be made in military manpower and spending without weakening combat strength.

At his first news conference since taking over in the Pentagon, Wilson forecast that by July 1 there will be some reduction in the present 3½ million people in uniform.

He said, too, that the monthly rate of defense spending has been frozen at the January level, of nearly four billion dollars. He said he hopes this rate can be reduced.

The secretary told questioners that "if possible" he would like to lower draft calls.

Right at the start Wilson was asked, "Do you think we are prepared to defend this country?"

No, Wilson said, he wished we were better prepared than we are. But he said that doesn't mean we are in a woeful or pitiful condition.

And a little later on he said:

"I don't think any of us should lay awake nights for fear we are going to be blasted into eternity tomorrow morning."

Still, the Secretary said, it might be a good thing to keep in a reasonable position to meet the Maker.

On other points, Wilson said:

He personally has no plan for ending the war in Korea. The government has plans that can be used under different circumstances but that is all he can say on the matter.

The budget of the Truman administration for defense purposes definitely will not be increased. He sees nothing new in the death of Soviet Premier Stalin, no change in the Russian posture, to cause any revision in plans for reducing manpower and spending.

It would seem to him to be a sensible thing to train more South Korean divisions.

The situation with regard to ammunition supplies in Korea has improved in the last three months and is improving rapidly. In the last year Allied forces have shot off nine times as much as the enemy.

Big Transport With Soldiers Aboard Burns

Four-Engine Craft Falls To Earth As It Circles For Landing

OAKLAND, Calif., March 20 (AP)—A four-engine transport plane carrying some 35 crewmen and soldiers from Roswell, N. Mex., crashed in flames south of here today, killing all aboard.

The Transocean Air lines DC-4, cleared for a landing at Oakland Airport, crashed as it circled a hill near Decoto, site of a United Air Lines DC6B crash Aug. 24, 1951, that killed 50 persons in California's worst air disaster.

The Transocean plane skidded 100 yards, broke into bits and burst into flames, witnesses said. Parts of it were hurled over a quarter-mile radius.

It burned for some time after the crash.

Woman Tells Of Crash

Ambulances had difficulty reaching the scene because of the sticky mud in the newly plowed field in which the plane crashed.

Mrs. Henry Andrade, who lives only 300 yards from the crash scene, said the first she knew of the disaster was a loud noise. She looked out a window and saw "a great ball of fire."

She said she saw the men with their clothes on fire, some on the ground and some trying to get up, staggering, falling back.

Alameda County sheriff's officers said bodies could be seen in the burning shell of the fuselage.

The crash site is near the east shore of San Francisco Bay, about one-half mile north of Alvarado.

Ambulances rushed to the burning wreck from four East Bay hospitals.

Transocean Air Lines is the world's largest non-scheduled air carrier. Its headquarters are in Oakland.

Men En Route To Far East

Transocean planes have airlifted thousands of military personnel and tons of supplies from the West Coast to Korea.

The 30 Air Force personnel aboard were identified as "support and maintenance specialists" by the public information office at Walker Air Force Base, Roswell.

They were en route to the Far East for a tour of duty with the 509th Bomber Wing, now on routine duty overseas.

The PIO said there were five members of the civilian crew: three pilots a steward and an engineer.

Reed Promises To Renew Fight For Tax Relief

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — The oldest Republican in continuous service in the House said today the GOP "will have sold the people down the river" unless it reduces taxes at this session of Congress.

Chairman Reed (R-NY) of the tax-writing ways and means committee threw that challenge to his party in proclaiming "I have not surrendered to anyone in the tax reduction battle."

He renewed an indirect charge that President Eisenhower and other GOP leaders are betraying campaign pledges by opposing early tax cuts.

The 77-year-old New Yorker said he is confident House leaders will bring to the floor "in the very near future" his bill to chop personal income tax rates 10 per cent annually starting June 30.

Jelke Draws 8-Month Term In Workhouse As Gun Toter

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—Playboy Minot (Mickey) Jelke drew an eight months term in the workhouse today as a gun toter, but his sentencing as a cafe society vice procurer was postponed a week.

"He had guns at his disposal nine-tenths of every day," Asst. Dist. Atty. Anthony J. Liebler told the sentencing court. "But for the grace of God, there might have been a homicide in his apartment.

Liebler claimed Jelke once pulled a gun on a tradesman in his apartment and on another occasion had to wrest a loaded revolver away from a giddy call girl. He had no permit for the gun.

The sentence stunned the 23-year-old heir to oleomargarine millions, who had pleaded guilty to illegal possession of the firearms.

"We think it's harsh, excessive and unwarranted," said defense lawyers Sam Segal and Martin Benjamin.

Jelke denied to reporters that there were any high jinks with loaded guns in his apartment as alleged by Liebler.

"They never happened," insisted Jelke.

Jelke originally went before General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente for sentencing on two charges of compulsory prostitution—involving Pat Ward, 19 and Marguerite Cordova, 23.

An all male jury convicted him Feb. 27 after a sensational trial. However, the jury recommended mercy for the pudgy playboy. He can get up to 40 years on the conviction.

Judge Valente postponed sentencing to March 27 because Jelke's probation report still isn't ready.

A reporter asked McCarthy if he thought Bohlen was a security risk.

"That's putting it too weak," the senator replied.

The sharp new controversy over Bohlen, a 48-year-old career officer in the State Department, began on the floor of the Senate, where McCarran made his charges.

When reporters arrived at Dulles' office for a previously arranged news conference, they found the secretary flanked by Sen. Wiley (R-Wis), chairman of the foreign relations committee.

Wiley's committee voted 15 to 0 Wednesday to approve Bohlen as ambassador to Moscow.

McCarran argued, however, that the Senate should not pass on Bohlen "until there is made available, for the inspection of any senator who desires to see it, the full and complete FBI report on this nominee." Dulles did not show the report to the committee, but merely gave his evaluation of it.

McCarran told the Senate that Dulles informed McLeod that he could not substitute himself for the secretary of state, and then "summarily" overrode him on the question of Bohlen's clearance.

If the facts are as he understood them, McCarran added, McLeod should resign and tell his story to the people.

Malenkov Gives Up Party Committee Job

LONDON, March 20 (AP) — N. S. Khrushchev, a fast rising Ukrainian Soviet politician, appeared tonight to have stepped into an old job of his boss, Prime Minister Georgi Malenkov.

The job is leadership of the powerful Central Committee of the Soviet Union Communist party.

The Moscow radio reported the committee met in plenary session March 14 "to accede to the request of the chairman of the USSR Council of Ministers (prime Ministers) G. M. Malenkov for his release from duties as secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist party of the Soviet Union.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WAHINGTON, March 20 — As of today, the small number of men who know the real situation are betting that President Eisenhower will at least approve the most important parts of the air defense program that he is now considering.

As previously reported, this program, prepared under Air Force contract by an M. I. T. research group, Project Lincoln, is estimated to cost $16 billion to $20 billion in its entirety. Unfortunately, the most important parts of the program are also the most expensive parts, as may be seen from the shortest review of the scientists' program.

An early warning net must be thrown around the remote and almost inaccessible northern fringes of the hemisphere. The outer net must be connected with the inner net. Each part must automatically communicate with every other part. And all the parts must automatically guide the defenders to the attackers in the trackless spaces of the upper air.

By the same token, fighter air bases and guided missile launching sites must be arranged in echelon, from the air frontier to the American industrial heartland. Every attacker must run the gauntlet of many defenders, from the moment he passes the air frontier, until he approaches his target. The earliest possible warning, and the exposure of attacking aircraft to the maximum number of counter-attacks, are the twin principles of effective air defense.

Some of the scientists have proposed a larger version of the Manhattan District, to procure the needful quantities of radically novel equipment, and to fit old and new weapons into a single, unified weapons system. Project Lincoln and its offshoot, the Summer Study Group, are also understood

Boy Rescued After Going Over Falls

Corso, after tossing a life preserver to the boy whose two companions perished in the river, went down the light line and grabbed the boy after he went over a falls.

$20,000 Haul

Man Armed With Acid Robs Ft. Meade Bank

FORT MEADE, Md., March 20 (AP)—A "tall, distinguished looking man" walked into a branch bank here today and held out a pint fruit jar with some kind of liquid in it.

"Smell it," he said. "It's acid."

He walked out with about $20,000 in a brown paper bag and disappeared somewhere in the maze of roads that lead to Baltimore on the northeast, Washington on the southwest and Annapolis on the southeast.

Military police, state troopers and FBI agents scoured the area for the 1949 or 1950 Mercury sedan in which he was believed to have escaped. They set up road blocks on the dozen roads out of this sprawling military reservation, stopping all cars and trucks to give their occupants a once-over.

It was 1.55 p. m., just five minutes before closing time, Stuart W. Dorset estimated, when the man walked into the bank, his fruit jar in one hand and a paper bag in the other.

He went up to Miss Hazel Gore, 29-year-old teller and held the jar under her nose.

Dorset, 24-year-old manager of the bank, stepped forward.

"He told me: 'Put the money in the bag or I'll throw the acid in this young lady's face?"

Dorset turned over packs of $20, $10, and $5 bills. He estimated it was about $20,000, but not all the money in the place.

The man slipped his fruit jar back inside his trench coat, got into a car parked near the entrance to the bank, and drove slowly away.

Coffee Drinkers Gouged Billions, Senator Charges

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa) said today coffee drinkers in the United States have been gouged billions of dollars.

Coffee prices are soaring again, he told the Senate, with the end of price controls.

Gillette revived a three-year old international controversy by contending that speculators in this country and South American nations, which supply most of the coffee, manipulated coffee prices sky high.

The senator said he will again ask Congress, as he did in 1950, to place trading in coffee under the Commodity Exchange Act. This amounts to government supervision of trading.

Iranian Premier Rejects Oil Offer

TEHRAN, Iran, March 20 (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, in a broadcast recorded from his bed, today rejected the latest British offer for a settlement of the Iranian oil dispute. In a triumphant vein, he declared Iran will win a "national victory" if she continues on her course.

But he left the way open to further negotiations, and expressed hope that Britain would make possible the restoration of diplomatic relations by adjusting her policy to the rising nationalism of many nations of the world today. Iran ejected British diplomats last October.

Mossadegh balked over the terms for compensation to the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company as had been forecast. The company's 60-year concession was cancelled and its Iranian properties nationalized in 1951.

Mossadegh said Iran was willing to pay for property seized. But he said Britain wanted compensation for her "enterprise" in Iran. Mossadegh's advisers have interpreted this as meaning the AIOC would claim compensation for profits it would have made in the future.

Gottwald's Successor Will Be Named Today

VIENNA, Austria, March 20 (AP)—Radio Prague announced tonight the Czechoslovak Communist Parliament will meet at noon tomorrow to elect a new president to succeed the late Klement Gottwald.

Gottwald, East Europe's most powerful satellite leader, died in Prague March 14, three days after he returned from the funeral of his friend, Joseph Stalin, in Moscow.

Wilson Predicts Armed Forces Slash By July 1

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — Secretary of Defense Wilson said today he does not think we are fully prepared to defend this country. But he said he still believes cuts can be made in military manpower and spending without weakening combat strength.

At his first news conference since taking over in the Pentagon, Wilson forecast that by July 1 there will be some reduction in the present 3½ million people in uniform.

He said, too, that the monthly rate of defense spending has been frozen at the January level, of nearly four billion dollars. He said he hopes this rate can be reduced.

The secretary told questioners that "if possible" he would like to lower draft calls.

Right at the start Wilson was asked, "Do you think we are prepared to defend this country?"

No, Wilson said, he wished we were better prepared than we are. But he said that doesn't mean we are in a woeful or pitiful condition.

And a little later on he said:

"I don't think any of us should lay awake nights for fear we are going to be blasted into eternity tomorrow morning."

Still, the Secretary said, it might be a good thing to keep in a reasonable position to meet the Maker.

On other points, Wilson said:

He personally has no plan for ending the war in Korea. The government has plans that can be used under different circumstances but that is all he can say on the matter.

The budget of the Truman administration for defense purposes definitely will not be increased. He sees nothing new in the death of Soviet Premier Stalin, no change in the Russian posture, to cause any revision in plans for reducing manpower and spending.

It would seem to him to be a sensible thing to train more South Korean divisions.

The situation with regard to ammunition supplies in Korea has improved in the last three months and is improving rapidly. In the last year Allied forces have shot off nine times as much as the enemy.

Big Transport With Soldiers Aboard Burns

Four-Engine Craft Falls To Earth As It Circles For Landing

OAKLAND, Calif., March 20 (AP)—A four-engine transport plane carrying some 35 crewmen and soldiers from Roswell, N. Mex., crashed in flames south of here today, killing all aboard.

The Transocean Air lines DC-4, cleared for a landing at Oakland Airport, crashed as it circled a hill near Decoto, site of a United Air Lines DC6B crash Aug. 24, 1951, that killed 50 persons in California's worst air disaster.

The Transocean plane skidded 100 yards, broke into bits and burst into flames, witnesses said. Parts of it were hurled over a quarter-mile radius.

It burned for some time after the crash.

Woman Tells Of Crash

Ambulances had difficulty reaching the scene because of the sticky mud in the newly plowed field in which the plane crashed.

Mrs. Henry Andrade, who lives only 300 yards from the crash scene, said the first she knew of the disaster was a loud noise. She looked out a window and saw "a great ball of fire."

She said she saw the men with their clothes on fire, some on the ground and some trying to get up, staggering, falling back.

Alameda County sheriff's officers said bodies could be seen in the burning shell of the fuselage.

The crash site is near the east shore of San Francisco Bay, about one-half mile north of Alvarado.

Ambulances rushed to the burning wreck from four East Bay hospitals.

Transocean Air Lines is the world's largest non-scheduled air carrier. Its headquarters are in Oakland.

Men En Route To Far East

Transocean planes have airlifted thousands of military personnel and tons of supplies from the West Coast to Korea.

The 30 Air Force personnel aboard were identified as "support and maintenance specialists" by the public information office at Walker Air Force Base, Roswell.

They were en route to the Far East for a tour of duty with the 509th Bomber Wing, now on routine duty overseas.

The PIO said there were five members of the civilian crew: three pilots a steward and an engineer.

Reed Promises To Renew Fight For Tax Relief

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — The oldest Republican in continuous service in the House said today the GOP "will have sold the people down the river" unless it reduces taxes at this session of Congress.

Chairman Reed (R-NY) of the tax-writing ways and means committee threw that challenge to his party in proclaiming "I have not surrendered to anyone in the tax reduction battle."

He renewed an indirect charge that President Eisenhower and other GOP leaders are betraying campaign pledges by opposing early tax cuts.

The 77-year-old New Yorker said he is confident House leaders will bring to the floor "in the very near future" his bill to chop personal income tax rates 10 per cent annually starting June 30.

Jelke Draws 8-Month Term In Workhouse As Gun Toter

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—Playboy Minot (Mickey) Jelke drew an eight months term in the workhouse today as a gun toter, but his sentencing as a cafe society vice procurer was postponed a week.

"He had guns at his disposal nine-tenths of every day," Asst. Dist. Atty. Anthony J. Liebler told the sentencing court. "But for the grace of God, there might have been a homicide in his apartment.

Liebler claimed Jelke once pulled a gun on a tradesman in his apartment and on another occasion had to wrest a loaded revolver away from a giddy call girl. He had no permit for the gun.

The sentence stunned the 23-year-old heir to oleomargarine millions, who had pleaded guilty to illegal possession of the firearms.

"We think it's harsh, excessive and unwarranted," said defense lawyers Sam Segal and Martin Benjamin.

Jelke denied to reporters that there were any high jinks with loaded guns in his apartment as alleged by Liebler.

"They never happened," insisted Jelke.

Jelke originally went before General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente for sentencing on two charges of compulsory prostitution—involving Pat Ward, 19 and Marguerite Cordova, 23.

An all male jury convicted him Feb. 27 after a sensational trial. However, the jury recommended mercy for the pudgy playboy. He can get up to 40 years on the conviction.

Judge Valente postponed sentencing to March 27 because Jelke's probation report still isn't ready.

Three-Area Rent Curb Bill Nears House Approval

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 20 (AP) — When federal controls on rents are removed, only Baltimore City, Baltimore County and Hagerstown will have a choice in Maryland of continuing them the way pending legislation stood today.

The bill to enable local governments to adopt controls advanced to within one step of House passage. Before then and passage by the Senate, other cities or counties can be included.

Federal controls are expected to expire April 30. This bill will extend until 1955 a state law enabling local governments then to impose their own.

The bill originally provided such standby authority for Baltimore and 11 counties. The House Judiciary Committee eliminated all the counties and informed them they could include themselves by individual amendments on the floor.

Only Baltimore County and Hagerstown came forward to join Baltimore.

Bay Fishing Ban Killed

After sentiment flowed and ebbed like the tide, the delegates killed the proposal to ban all fishing in Chesapeake Bay during January and February. The vote was decisive, 55 to 39.

It was a complete reversal from just three days ago when the delegates voted 61-37 on second reading in favor of the closed season.

Gov. McKeldin sent down a supplement of $173,866 to his budget. The recommended budget changes included a previously announced reduction in the real estate tax.

The supplements, the governor pointed out, are primarily to provide for the cost of pending legislation and more money the legislators ordered for themselves.

The latest revisions in the state property tax now propose it be 8.47 cents for each $100 assessment. At the start of this 90-day session, it was anticipated at 11.29 cents. The rate this year has been 6.04.

Surplus Estimates Revised

State fiscal experts later revised their estimates of anticipated surplus which permitted the proposed tax to be cut two cents. Gov. McKeldin provided $242,995 in his supplemental budget to make another drop possible. All real estate tax money goes to pay off the state's bonded indebtedness.

The State Tax Commission paved the way for putting $142,995 into the bond fund by raising its estimate of the amount of taxable property. This permitted the Governor to transfer $119,797 from the school equalization fund and $23,198 from the incentive fund for school construction. The other $100,000 came from Civil Defense when it was found it had to put up less money to match funds from the federal government.

The Governor had to provide $80,977 because the legislators voted themselves $600 expenses for this 90-day session. He also had to earmark another $21,065 to pay them and some extra employes during next year's 30-day assembly.

Jaywalkers Given Five Days In Jail

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Don't jaywalk if you come to Washington for a visit!

For years Washington policemen have handed out traffic violation tickets to pedestrians ignoring red lights and other regulations.

But today Municipal Judge George D. Neilson really cracked down.

He sentenced two men — both Washington residents—to five days each in jail for crossing a street against a light despite a policeman's shouted warnings.

Painter Who's Sure He's Heir To Title Runs Low On Funds

SALISBURY, Md., March 20 (AP)—Adrian Ivor Dunbar, the Maryland farmer and house painter who is sure he is heir to a British title and 15 small farms in Scotland, was down to his last dollar for a while today.

"I'm just about on my uppers," said the wiry 60-year-old. "If I have to do any more running around searching for proof of my inheritance, I may have to mortgage my home."

Dunbar arrived here by bus early today, on the way home to his little farm at the tiny Somerset County town of Lower Fairmont.

He had been to Connecticut and New Jersey, hunting for legal proof there are no others ahead of him in the line for the Baronetcy of Dunbar.

He had set out earlier in the week with $35.

He landed in Salisbury with $1. A policeman gave him a ride to a hotel. The hotel demanded payment in advance. It wouldn't cash his check. Dunbar finally routed a Salisbury friend who advanced him the money.

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — The Marine Corps today took the wraps off its "Mighty Mite" a baby brother to the wartime jeep.

Maritime Union Boss Assails T-H Closed-Shop Ban

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) — Joseph Curran, president of the CIO Maritime Union, said today the Taft-Hartley Act threatens to open the way for "subversives, perverts, dope fiends and other criminals to man the ships of our merchant marine."

He said his union "has made an outstanding contribution to the welfare and security of our nation" through a "relentless drive against the waterfront section of the Communist party."

This would not have been possible, Curran told the House Labor Committee, without union control over employment practices in the industry.

"Yet the Taft-Hartley Act has provided an avenue of return for these subversives and criminals," the maritime union leader said.

The law, now before the committee for revision, forbids the closed shop, a form of union security which restricts hiring to union members only. This ban on the closed-shop, Curran said, "has operated to destroy the union hiring hall . . ., the most important single labor relations device ever to be developed in the maritime industry."

A modified hiring hall system of employment is still in effect in the industry but court decisions have ruled it illegal if preference in employment is given to union members.

Curran said the prohibition on hiring hall practices threatens "to return seamen to the scandalous and horrible conditions of the East Coast longshore shape-up and more."

This was a reference to the AFL Longshoremen's Union which has been ordered by the AFL Executive Council to eliminate the shape-up system of hiring or face possible expulsion from the AFL.

The shape-up is a method of hiring which leaves job applicants at the mercy of a dock boss who each day hires dock workers of his own choice from a large number of applicants.

ANNAPOLIS, March 20 (AP)—Two Naval Academy instructors miraculously escaped serious injury when a twin-engine amphibious plane crashed into four houses in nearby Eastport today.

The plane, a Grumman Goose (JRF), was demolished in the first land smashup of a Navy plane in this vicinity since the Naval Air Facility was established 42 years ago.

Tito Aide Suggests Satellites Quit Soviet

LONDON, March 20 (AP)—Marshal Tito's foreign secretary said today that Soviet satellites had been shaken by Stalin's death and suggested they follow Yugoslavia out of the Kremlin orbit.

The secretary, Col. Gen. Koca Popovic, told 300 newsmen Stalin's death dealt a blow to the internal stability of Russia as well as the East European satellites, and added, "the example of Yugoslavia may be very instructive to the satellites. They must be shown there is a genuine alternative."

Tito led Yugoslavia out of the Soviet orbit in 1948 after a row over the rights of smaller states in the Red camp.

Popovic's conference marked the last full day of the Communist President's history-making visit to Britain and coincided with a Supply Ministry announcement Britain will build about a million dollars worth of helicopters for Yugoslavia on an "off-shore" order from the United States Air Forces in Europe.

The secretary, Col. Gen. Koca Popovic, told 300 newsmen Stalin's death dealt a blow to the internal stability of Russia as well as the East European satellites, and added, "the example of Yugoslavia may be very instructive to the satellites. They must be shown there is a genuine alternative."

Tito led Yugoslavia out of the Soviet orbit in 1948 after a row over the rights of smaller states in the Red camp.

Popovic's conference marked the last full day of the Communist President's history-making visit to Britain and coincided with a Supply Ministry announcement Britain will build about a million dollars worth of helicopters for Yugoslavia on an "off-shore" order from the United States Air Forces in Europe.

End Of The RFC?

With Republican control of Congress and an administration pledged to take the government out of private business, chances for survival of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation appear to be slim. Liquidation of the RFC at this time would mean the return to the Treasury of a large share of its assets, estimated to stand at $1,168 million when the fiscal year ends on June 30. That would help materially in balancing the budget.

A bill to start liquidation of the RFC next January 1 has been introduced by Senator Byrd. He notes that a similar bill narrowly failed of passage in the Senate last year "after it had been demonstrated that the agency's services were subject to abuse when it had nothing to do."

Congress in 1951 had allowed President Truman's reorganization plan providing a single administrator for the RFC to go into operation. Last year, when an administration bill to give statutory effect to RFC reforms was brought up, Byrd offered a substitute to abolish the whole agency. The Byrd substitute was accepted by the Senate, 42 to 37, but the administration finally was able to get all RFC legislation sent back to committee.

The RFC is often thought of as a product of the New Deal, but the 21-year-old lending agency goes back to January 1932, when it was established by Congress at the behest of President Hoover. The idea was broached in Hoover's State of the Union message of December 8, 1931. The project was to be temporary; "it should be placed in liquidation at the end of two years." The role of the new agency, as Hoover emphasized in a special message of January 4, 1932, was "to furnish during the period of the depression credits otherwise unobtainable under existing circumstances in order to give confidence to agriculture, industry and labor against further paralyzing influences."

Originally the RFC was used to shore up banks, railroads, other institutions which needed new capital to weather the economic storm. Advances to states for relief purposes were made in the form of loans.

Under President Roosevelt the RFC played a more direct relief role. And in World War II it presented a ready mechanism for loans to Allied governments and defense industries.

Under President Truman the RFC turned its attention to small business. Congress in May 1948 extended its life until 1956 and its lending powers until 1954. As the Fulbright subcommittee report of February 1951 showed, the agency since World War II had made loans to luxury hotels, gambling establishments, a juke box factory, even a snake farm—all in the name of small business.

In March 1949 the Hoover Commission recommended that the agency, "accountable to nobody," be shifted to the Treasury Department. The commission's final report, April 1, 1949, "strongly recommended liquidation. RFC's function was to be replaced by "guarantees by the government operating through the Federal Reserve banks of loans to be made by commercial banks."

Easter Customs

In one form or another modern Easter customs have been practiced for centuries, even the sending of warm-hearted greetings on Easter cards.

Historically, the modern Easter parade began early in the Fourth Century when the Roman Emperor Constantine declared his entire court must wear their finest new robes to honor the Feast of Christ's Resurrection.

Probably everyone has been puzzled to account for the variation of the date of Easter when most holidays in the Christian church are fixed dates. This, too, harks back to Emperor Constantine, the first ruler to accept Christianity. In 325 he summoned his council of Nicaea, and there it was decided that Easter should fall on the Sunday following the first full moon after March 21, the first day of spring.

This formula, adopted by the church, explains why Easter may fall anywhere from March 22 to April 25.

As the years passed customs relating to the lighter side of the festival developed, varying in different countries.

Easter is said to have been named after Eostre, the Anglo-Saxon goddess of spring, who was especially fond of children. To delight them, legend says she transformed a beautiful pet bird into Mr. Hippety Hop —the Easter Bunny.

In 15th Century England Easter was celebrated by young and old in a light-hearted manner. Medieval churches in many European countries enlivened their services with an "egg-throwing" ritual. In Poland children floated painted egg-shells down rivers to carry Easter greetings to mythical races living underground. German maidens once went at sunrise to dip "Easter water" from river banks to bathe in, to be blessed with beauty throughout the year—if they performed the ceremony without uttering a word.

Here in America, a popular Easter custom, dyeing eggs, has been traced back to early Dutch settlers in New York and Pennsylvania. Actually it began when early Christians, hiding from persecution in the catacombs of Rome, stained their Easter eggs a deep red to symbolize the blood of Christ.

Around 1850, just a century ago, the people of Germany began sending Easter cards instead of colored inscribed eggs formerly the traditional Easter greetings in Europe for many centuries.

Wilson's Spring Pruning

The firm hand of a management expert is evident in the order issued by Defense Secretary Wilson to the civilian heads of the three branches of the armed forces. The order said simply that the number of civilians on the defense payrolls must be reduced by 39,346 by the end of May. No ifs, ands, or buts.

The three services now employ 1,290,000 civilians. Therefore the cut will amount to less than three per cent, or approximately the number that would normally resign in a two-and-a-half-month period.

The order means that no civilians are to be hired to take the place of those who would normally be quitting government jobs for one reason or another. Nor are the services permitted to shift uniformed personnel around to cover the gaps left by civilian departures. All of which will acquaint supervisory personnel with an old maxim that is standard in industry: You never know how much you can get along without until you have to.

Apparently spring pruning is in vogue in Washington. A start is at least being made. The purpose, of course, is to get more efficiency out of the defense dollar. The nation will be watching with interest as the branches and twigs fall.

How To Keep Well

The Significance Of Coughed Up Blood

Coughing up blood (hemoptysis) is a tricky symptom because there is always an outside chance that it might be associated with a serious disorder. Furthermore, there is no relation between the amount of blood expectorated and the cause. These facts cannot be ignored.

Several years ago I talked with a man who knew he had cancer of the lungs. He was philosophycal about the outlook but during the conversation asked me to mention in my column the mistake he had made. Mr. Blank had been a heavy smoker and a year previously had coughed up blood. X-rays of the chest showed a small, suspicious shadow and the physician recommended a more thorough study of the bronchial tubes via the bronchoscope. Here the man with cancer looked me straight in the eyes and said, "When the physician recommended that bronchoscope, I said to myself, 'This examination has gone far enough. That blood came from the back of my throat following a coughing spell.' I didn't realize that my life was at stake at that moment and decided my physician was far more concerned than was necessary. Using the excuse that I wanted more time to think it over, I left his office. Several months later there was another hemorrhage and I need not tell you that by this time it was too late." We are all entitled to make a few mistakes but there is no percentage in taking a chance when it comes to health, because the penalty for error is too great.

Coughing up blood may occur with almost any type of chest condition. It is not unusual in chronic bronchitis, particularly when the individual has several hard coughing spells in the day. The strain may rupture a lung capillary or one of the small arteries or veins. Bronchiectasis is another offender. In this condition the bronchi are weakened as a result of infection and the dilated portions act as reservoirs or sacs in which the secretions accumulate. The individual coughs periodically, especially when changing position or in physical exertion. It is in these episodes that blood vessels may rupture and streaks of blood appear in the sputum. Victims of bronchiectasis recognize this situation and are not inclined to become excited at the sight of blood.

Statistics show that up to 24 per cent of all pulmonary tuberculosis patients cough up blood at some time in the course of the illness. It is for this reason that this disease is listed as one of the most common causes of hemoptysis before the age of 40. In the early stages, infection stems from a ruptured capillary in the midst of the infected tissue. Blood is noted most often in the early morning or after exercise or injury and in women, during menstruation. On the other hand, bleeding from the lungs in older persons suggests a lung tumor.

RESTRICTED SALT

F. W. writes: Does adherence to a low salt diet cause a deficiency of this mineral in the body?

REPLY

Ultimately, provided there is a great reduction in the amount of salt consumed. Most foods contain some salt so that the usual low sodium diet in which no salt is added in the kitchen or at the table contains enough to maintain the body's ordinary needs.

BREECH DELIVERY

Mrs. W. writes: Must a breech baby be delivered by a caesarean operation?

REPLY

No, even though a breech delivery is the more difficult of the two. The size of the baby versus the size of the birth canal is one of the main factors in the consideration of a caesarean section.

SLIMMING THE WAIST LINE

Mrs. F. writes: I am becoming chunky around the waist and hips and would like some good exercises. Do you have any advice along this line?

REPLY

Yes, we have a leaflet on abdominal and waist line exercises that can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NAIL BITING

L. S. writes: If a girl bites her nails routinely, is there danger that nail particles will reach the stomach and cause injury?

REPLY

When these particles are swallowed they rarely if ever cause trouble. Infections of the finger are a more common aftermath because this represents human bites which can be serious.

TOOTHLESS

Mrs. F. R. writes: After having several teeth removed under a local, I discovered that I am pregnant. Will the drug I took and the extractions cause my baby to be born with a hairlip?

REPLY

No, but I'm willing to bet that your infant will enter the world toothless.

COD LIVER OIL

Mrs. I. writes: Does cod liver oil contain any vitamins?

REPLY

It's chockful of vitamins A and D.

Military Faces Heaviest Cuts Since End Of War; White House Pessimistic On Korea Truce; Joint Chiefs Given Wide Power To Adjust Spending

WASHINGTON — This column has obtained a copy of the drastic secret order from Undersecretary of defense Roger Kyes to the secretaries of the Army, Navy, and Air Force ordering the heaviest military budget cuts since the end of the war.

While the order shows a sincere effort to balance the over-all national budget, the cut of $4,300,000,000 comes when the United States had only 75 jet planes in Europe against Russia's 8,000 at the time the U. S. jet was shot down over Germany; and at a time when other planes have been menaced in other areas.

Most significant part of the drastic order is that budget cuts are based on the assumption "that combat will continue at not less than the present rate" for the next two years. In other words, the White House takes a pessimistic view of the Koreans fighting—despite certain hopes and statements made last fall.

The Truman defense budget, which Secretary of Defense Wilson recently said he could not cut, called for $45.5 billion of military spending for the fiscal year 1954. That's the year beginning July 1. The National Security Council, on an order from Budget Director Joe Dodge, now proposes to reduce this to $41.2 billion. The heads of the Army, Navy and Air Force are given only three weeks in which to make this cut. Furthermore the secret order discusses the "expenditures" budget, not the appropriations to be passed by Congress. In other words, the memo discussed actual cuts in military spending.

Here is the order, dated March 9, 1953, sent by Deputy Secretary Kyes to the secretaries of the Army, Navy, and Air Force:

Deadline: March 24

"At the National Security Council meeting on 4 March 1953 it was agreed that there would be an exploration and appraisal of the effect of approaching a balanced budget by fiscal year 1954 and achieving a balanced budget in fiscal year 1955. As part of this study, the Department was directed to submit to the council by 24 March 1953 a statement as to (1) revisions in the programs which would be necessary to reduce them to certain specified expenditure levels, and (2) the effect of these revisions in relation to currently approved national security policies and objectives.

"As a basis for this study, the director of the Bureau of the Budget proposed, and the council agreed, that certain assumed total expenditure limits should be assigned the executive departments and agencies. For the Department of Defense, the amount allocated on an expenditure basis is $41.2 billion for fiscal year 1954 and $34.6 billion- for fiscal year 1955. There was also an allocation made for the Mutual Security program, and the position which was subsequently sub-allocated for military assistance on an expenditure basis is $4.3 billion for fiscal year 1954 and $3.1 billion for fiscal year 1955.

"It is requested that each of the military departments prepare a statement, supported by a detailed cost category statement, indicating the forces that could be maintained with these expenditures, taking into account the following asumptions: (A) that basic units and combat strength be maintained wherever possible, and reductions first applied to overhead personnel and the less necessary projects with, however, proper emphasis placed on modernization of equipment; (B) that the uncollected balance in the ordnance procurement account of the Army management fund shall remain during the succeeding two fiscal years at the same level as 30 June 1953; (C) that expenditures will be made of unspent working funds administered by other agencies; (D) that combat will continue at not less than the present rate during the two year period under consideration; (E) that full consideration will be given to the effect of funds which would be spent during the period involved under the military assistance program and forces achieved as a result of our combined efforts with our allies.

Wide-Open Instructions

"The Joint Chiefs of Staff are requested to review the statements provided by each of the military departments and to provide this office no later than 0900 on 20 March 1953:

"(A) Recommendations regarding any adjustments within or between the military departments in the military composition or support of the forces proposed by the military departments which in their opinion would increase the ability of the U. S. to carry out its current policies and commitments within the total expenditure allocation to the Department of Defense.

"(B) Evaluation of the capabilities of such forces to carry out presently approved policies and commitments.

"(C) Evaluation of the nature and extent of modifications that would need to be made in presently approved policies and commitments."

NOTE—The instructions to the Joint Chiefs, it will be noted, open the door wide for them to revise the whole defense structure. In other words, they could throw out supercarriers or do whatever they think best to keep military spending within the $41.2-billion limit. This means such drastic cuts that you can almost see the baldheaded shadow of budget-cutter Louis Johnson stalking the Pentagon corridors again.

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON —Administration foreign policy leaders, and the wiser heads in Congress, are privately urging caution in the West's attitude toward the two aerial shooting incidents over Allied occupation zones in Germany.

Hopes are being freely expressed that the two attacks by Communist planes within two days constitute a coincidence and not a pattern of provocation instigated by the new Soviet regime.

Both the administration and Congress take the most serious view of the occurrences which have seen an American and a British plane shot out of the skies by MIG-15 jet fighters. There is no disposition to pull punches in diplomatic notes of protest.

However, there is a genuine tendency to attribute the shootings to the notably trigger-happy Red airmen, at least until a pattern of intentional, inspired provocation can be established. Should this last prove to be the case, the Western powers will be faced with a situation fully as explosive as the Berlin blockade.

Quiet Please

Since he took office January 20, President Eisenhower has received hundreds of speaking invitations. So far, none has been accepted and the chances are they won't be for some time to come.

Of course, one big reason for this is that the President is far too busy for all the states and local Republican groups which have asked him to address them. However, there is still another, bigger reason for Mr. Eisenhower's silence in this respect.

The GOP realizes it has a tough roe to hoe if it is to enlarge on or even keep its congressional majorities in 1954. In addition, it is expected that Republican gubernatorial candidates that year will face stiff Democratic opposition.

Therefore, the party's high command has decided to throw as much of the political spotlight as it can spare on these potential and actual candidates for lesser office. Officials believe it is never too early to start this part of the campaigning. And, they think an appearance by the President would distract from the political stature of congressional and gubernatorial candidates.

Atomic Artillery

The announcement that the atomic cannon will be fired during the spring tests in Nevada may be the Army's bid to regain stature and voice in the Pentagon through its ability to deliver an atomic explosion regardless of aerial weather conditions.

The Air Force has, since the dropping of the first bomb, taken the lead in all discussions over its use because it is the service that heretofore has had to take it to its destination.

Both the Army and the Navy had to take a back seat in many instances when the Air Force wanted money or men because the flyers were able to produce the fact that they had the only means of delivering an atomic explosion.

Proof Perfect

A Senate Democrat contends he has the perfect proof the Republicans do not expect to stay long in Washington.

Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington told a group of fellow party members recently he has this indication they expect a short tenure in power:

"The Republicans, astute and business-like as they are, are renting apartments—they are not buying houses."

Jackson's own opinion is that the Democrats' "return to leadership will take place in something less than four years."

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — It is coming as something of a surprise to many people here to learn that there really is a Republican President in the White House. They have gotten so used to the dictorial and intolerant attitude of Democratic Presidents in the last 20 years toward Congress that when Dwight Eisenhower refuses to get into a fight with Congress but prefers instead to respect it as a coordinate branch of the government, they say he is surrendering his prerogatives.

There are lots of people in the New Deal and Fair Deal group who for years have regarded Congress as a secondary and unimportant institution to be browbeaten or ridiculed, while the chief executive has been exalted as if he had the powers of a dictator. There are people here who really believe the executive power is such that it must be absolute and that the elected representatives of the people must follow a White House leader on everything.

Checks And Balances

Over in Germany in the '30's they taught the doctrine of "our leader" to the point where the national legislative body became a rubber stamp. Fortunately under the American system, the Congress and the Supreme Court and the Presidency constitute a three-headed form of government deliberately created by our forefathers to prevent one branch from encroaching on another.

It may be novel, but certainly it is no sin for members of the Senate to want to take a look at a Presidential nomination. Otherwise, the constitutional requirement that important appointments can be valid only if "the advice and consent" of the Senate has been obtained would be meaningless. What else does "advice and consent" mean but examination of all the facts?

Not long ago critics of the administration were applauding because the appointment of a secretary of Defense was carefully examined before confirmation. Today, when some senators want to look into the background of a man chosen to be ambassador to Soviet Russia in these troublous times, the impression is conveyed that this is somehow out of order and that a President's selection for ambassador is sacrosanct and not subject to careful investigation and prolonged debate if necessary before confirmation is voted or refused.

There is also the general power of Congress to investigate which is being criticized. Persistent efforts have been made by sympathizers with the New Deal and the Truman "red herring" attitude toward subversives in the government to persuade President Eisenhower to denounce all such inquiries. But Congress appropriates the money for executive departments and agencies of the government and has a right to check on what is happening to the taxpayers' money and to see if laws that bar subversives from the government are being enforced.

Whenever a member of Congress expresses a viewpoint different from the executive, the tendency of the Roosevelt-Truman-indoctrinated folks around here is to magnify it into a piece of serious friction or a first-class row. Yet the Constitution says that only the House of Representatives may originate tax legislation — not the President and not the Senate. Who has a better right to advocate tax reduction than Representative Reed, of New York, Republican, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee?

The theory that Mr. Eisenhower has been elected "leader" of both Congress and the executive branch is fallacious. One of the finest things about the new President is his respect for the rights of Congress. He can, of course, express at any time his own views on tax laws he may intend to sign or veto, but even a Democratic President who vetoed a tax bill found that two-thirds of Congress, under the leadership of Alben Barkley, overrode that veto.

Distortion Of Fact

It has been said that foreign policy is the exclusive province of the President. That is a distortion of fact. The President, under the Constitution, has the exclusive right to communicate with or carry on negotiations with foreign governments, but the Constitution also says that when an agreement is reached the treaty can be ratified only by the "advice and consent" of the Senate, expressed by a two-thirds vote.

There are some disadvantages, to be sure, in a separation of the powers of the executive and legislative branches of the government, but until the Constitution is amended to consolidate the executive and legislative into a single government, as is done under a parliamentary system, there can be no recognition of the executive as superior to the legislative branch of government. Each still has its own responsibility.

It is a lesson in the American form of government which is being ignored by many who keep on assuming that Mr. Eisenhower has been elected dictator of the entire government, including Congress. Party responsibility in legislation is desirable, but where international affairs are concerned and where the public interest must rise above party, the rights of Congress are as important as the rights of the executive.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

They Are People, Too

Professors and clergymen are people, too. They do not limit their human relations to the functional vocations by which they earn their livelihoods. They have human passions and they suffer from human foibles; they love and hate; some are wise in the ways of the world, some are stupid in many things outside their chosen spheres.

In a word, professors and clergymen are not an elite apart and different from all other citizens. Even as you and I, they are human. This discovery may shock some of them.

Recently, Congressman Harold H. Velde said something about looking into the doings of the clergy and immediately a hue and cry went forth about religious freedom. If a clergyman committed a murder, as has sometimes happened, no one relates that to the sanctity of religion. It means only that one clergyman was irreligious and permitted his human passions to mislead him. A sinner, he must take the consequences of his wrongdoing, here and hereafter, the same as any other murderer would have to.

Actually, to assume otherwise would, in itself, be a violation of the Commandments, because it would make of this servant of God a deity, a god on earth, not a man but a creature beyond man. No self-respecting clergyman of any church of God would permit anyone to so insult him.

Therefore, while several years ago, when lists of those endorsing Communist purposes appeared in the "Daily Worker," they contained few names of the clergy, today, by actual count, the clergy show up with about 50 per cent of all names.

This phenomenon requires analysis and study and that is being done by those who are concerned with Communist infiltration in the United States.

Several explanations are given for this:

1. Many clergymen are deeply moved by the need for peace in the world. While they are not necessarily Communists, they are going through the process of joining committees and signing pet ns which are Communist-inspired and directed. Many an actor or professor got himself into trouble for joining with Communists in causes which seemed innocent and humane but were designed to harm America.

It is impossible to say that a Christian minister should not support a peace movement if that is what his conscience dictates. Yet, as a man and a citizen, whatever his vocation, when he permits himself to become a pawn in the Communist effort to destroy the American will to resist the forces for our destruction as a people, forces formerly directed by Stalin and now by Malenkov, then he becomes a peril to our civilization and, again whatever his vocation, he must suffer the consequences of his decisions.

2. In a free society there are no orthodox and no unorthodox opinions. A man may believe what he wishes to believe and may express his views as he chooses. He is responsible for his own decisions whatever they may be.

The current use of the term, "unorthodox views," is an absurdity in the American society because there are no orthodox views. No one can say what is orthodox. Was William Jennings Bryan orthodox when he ran against William McKinley? Yet Bryan led a great political party and he might have been elected President. He did serve as secretary of State.

In a thought-controlled state, like Soviet Russia, unorthodox views lead to purges, imprisonment and even death. In the United States when men disagree, they argue, they debate. But there is no state intervention in anyone's private life, except when the American acts as an agent for a foreign power. Then he ceases to be a free man; he is a slave to his alien masters who use him to destroy us.

That has nothing to do with orthodox or unorthodox opinions. It does have to do with destructive conduct designed to break down our society. It is revolutionary action with the purpose of subjecting the minds of our people to the will of an organized conspiracy.

There was a time when men, in this country, could take a soapbox, pick a corner, and hurl hatred against our way of life with impunity. It meant nothing more than a scratch on granite with a penknife.

But when a foreign power uses our own sons and daughters as instruments for our destruction, then we need to know what is going on.

End Of The RFC?

With Republican control of Congress and an administration pledged to take the government out of private business, chances for survival of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation appear to be slim. Liquidation of the RFC at this time would mean the return to the Treasury of a large share of its assets, estimated to stand at $1,168 million when the fiscal year ends on June 30. That would help materially in balancing the budget.

A bill to start liquidation of the RFC next January 1 has been introduced by Senator Byrd. He notes that a similar bill narrowly failed of passage in the Senate last year "after it had been demonstrated that the agency's services were subject to abuse when it had nothing to do."

Congress in 1951 had allowed President Truman's reorganization plan providing a single administrator for the RFC to go into operation. Last year, when an administration bill to give statutory effect to RFC reforms was brought up, Byrd offered a substitute to abolish the whole agency. The Byrd substitute was accepted by the Senate, 42 to 37, but the administration finally was able to get all RFC legislation sent back to committee.

The RFC is often thought of as a product of the New Deal, but the 21-year-old lending agency goes back to January 1932, when it was established by Congress at the behest of President Hoover. The idea was broached in Hoover's State of the Union message of December 8, 1931. The project was to be temporary; "it should be placed in liquidation at the end of two years." The role of the new agency, as Hoover emphasized in a special message of January 4, 1932, was "to furnish during the period of the depression credits otherwise unobtainable under existing circumstances in order to give confidence to agriculture, industry and labor against further paralyzing influences."

Originally the RFC was used to shore up banks, railroads, other institutions which needed new capital to weather the economic storm. Advances to states for relief purposes were made in the form of loans.

Under President Roosevelt the RFC played a more direct relief role. And in World War II it presented a ready mechanism for loans to Allied governments and defense industries.

Under President Truman the RFC turned its attention to small business. Congress in May 1948 extended its life until 1956 and its lending powers until 1954. As the Fulbright subcommittee report of February 1951 showed, the agency since World War II had made loans to luxury hotels, gambling establishments, a juke box factory, even a snake farm—all in the name of small business.

In March 1949 the Hoover Commission recommended that the agency, "accountable to nobody," be shifted to the Treasury Department. The commission's final report, April 1, 1949, "strongly recommended liquidation. RFC's function was to be replaced by "guarantees by the government operating through the Federal Reserve banks of loans to be made by commercial banks."

Easter Customs

In one form or another modern Easter customs have been practiced for centuries, even the sending of warm-hearted greetings on Easter cards.

Historically, the modern Easter parade began early in the Fourth Century when the Roman Emperor Constantine declared his entire court must wear their finest new robes to honor the Feast of Christ's Resurrection.

Probably everyone has been puzzled to account for the variation of the date of Easter when most holidays in the Christian church are fixed dates. This, too, harks back to Emperor Constantine, the first ruler to accept Christianity. In 325 he summoned his council of Nicaea, and there it was decided that Easter should fall on the Sunday following the first full moon after March 21, the first day of spring.

This formula, adopted by the church, explains why Easter may fall anywhere from March 22 to April 25.

As the years passed customs relating to the lighter side of the festival developed, varying in different countries.

Easter is said to have been named after Eostre, the Anglo-Saxon goddess of spring, who was especially fond of children. To delight them, legend says she transformed a beautiful pet bird into Mr. Hippety Hop —the Easter Bunny.

In 15th Century England Easter was celebrated by young and old in a light-hearted manner. Medieval churches in many European countries enlivened their services with an "egg-throwing" ritual. In Poland children floated painted egg-shells down rivers to carry Easter greetings to mythical races living underground. German maidens once went at sunrise to dip "Easter water" from river banks to bathe in, to be blessed with beauty throughout the year—if they performed the ceremony without uttering a word.

Here in America, a popular Easter custom, dyeing eggs, has been traced back to early Dutch settlers in New York and Pennsylvania. Actually it began when early Christians, hiding from persecution in the catacombs of Rome, stained their Easter eggs a deep red to symbolize the blood of Christ.

Around 1850, just a century ago, the people of Germany began sending Easter cards instead of colored inscribed eggs formerly the traditional Easter greetings in Europe for many centuries.

Wilson's Spring Pruning

The firm hand of a management expert is evident in the order issued by Defense Secretary Wilson to the civilian heads of the three branches of the armed forces. The order said simply that the number of civilians on the defense payrolls must be reduced by 39,346 by the end of May. No ifs, ands, or buts.

The three services now employ 1,290,000 civilians. Therefore the cut will amount to less than three per cent, or approximately the number that would normally resign in a two-and-a-half-month period.

The order means that no civilians are to be hired to take the place of those who would normally be quitting government jobs for one reason or another. Nor are the services permitted to shift uniformed personnel around to cover the gaps left by civilian departures. All of which will acquaint supervisory personnel with an old maxim that is standard in industry: You never know how much you can get along without until you have to.

Apparently spring pruning is in vogue in Washington. A start is at least being made. The purpose, of course, is to get more efficiency out of the defense dollar. The nation will be watching with interest as the branches and twigs fall.

How To Keep Well

The Significance Of Coughed Up Blood

Coughing up blood (hemoptysis) is a tricky symptom because there is always an outside chance that it might be associated with a serious disorder. Furthermore, there is no relation between the amount of blood expectorated and the cause. These facts cannot be ignored.

Several years ago I talked with a man who knew he had cancer of the lungs. He was philosophycal about the outlook but during the conversation asked me to mention in my column the mistake he had made. Mr. Blank had been a heavy smoker and a year previously had coughed up blood. X-rays of the chest showed a small, suspicious shadow and the physician recommended a more thorough study of the bronchial tubes via the bronchoscope. Here the man with cancer looked me straight in the eyes and said, "When the physician recommended that bronchoscope, I said to myself, 'This examination has gone far enough. That blood came from the back of my throat following a coughing spell.' I didn't realize that my life was at stake at that moment and decided my physician was far more concerned than was necessary. Using the excuse that I wanted more time to think it over, I left his office. Several months later there was another hemorrhage and I need not tell you that by this time it was too late." We are all entitled to make a few mistakes but there is no percentage in taking a chance when it comes to health, because the penalty for error is too great.

Coughing up blood may occur with almost any type of chest condition. It is not unusual in chronic bronchitis, particularly when the individual has several hard coughing spells in the day. The strain may rupture a lung capillary or one of the small arteries or veins. Bronchiectasis is another offender. In this condition the bronchi are weakened as a result of infection and the dilated portions act as reservoirs or sacs in which the secretions accumulate. The individual coughs periodically, especially when changing position or in physical exertion. It is in these episodes that blood vessels may rupture and streaks of blood appear in the sputum. Victims of bronchiectasis recognize this situation and are not inclined to become excited at the sight of blood.

Statistics show that up to 24 per cent of all pulmonary tuberculosis patients cough up blood at some time in the course of the illness. It is for this reason that this disease is listed as one of the most common causes of hemoptysis before the age of 40. In the early stages, infection stems from a ruptured capillary in the midst of the infected tissue. Blood is noted most often in the early morning or after exercise or injury and in women, during menstruation. On the other hand, bleeding from the lungs in older persons suggests a lung tumor.

RESTRICTED SALT

F. W. writes: Does adherence to a low salt diet cause a deficiency of this mineral in the body?

REPLY

Ultimately, provided there is a great reduction in the amount of salt consumed. Most foods contain some salt so that the usual low sodium diet in which no salt is added in the kitchen or at the table contains enough to maintain the body's ordinary needs.

BREECH DELIVERY

Mrs. W. writes: Must a breech baby be delivered by a caesarean operation?

REPLY

No, even though a breech delivery is the more difficult of the two. The size of the baby versus the size of the birth canal is one of the main factors in the consideration of a caesarean section.

SLIMMING THE WAIST LINE

Mrs. F. writes: I am becoming chunky around the waist and hips and would like some good exercises. Do you have any advice along this line?

REPLY

Yes, we have a leaflet on abdominal and waist line exercises that can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NAIL BITING

L. S. writes: If a girl bites her nails routinely, is there danger that nail particles will reach the stomach and cause injury?

When these particles are swallowed they rarely if ever cause trouble. Infections of the finger are a more common aftermath because this represents human bites which can be serious.

REPLY

No, but I'm willing to bet that your infant will enter the world toothless.

Military Faces Heaviest Cuts Since End Of War; White House Pessimistic On Korea Truce; Joint Chiefs Given Wide Power To Adjust Spending

WASHINGTON — This column has obtained a copy of the drastic secret order from Undersecretary of defense Roger Kyes to the secretaries of the Army, Navy, and Air Force ordering the heaviest military budget cuts since the end of the war.

While the order shows a sincere effort to balance the over-all national budget, the cut of $4,300,000,000 comes when the United States had only 75 jet planes in Europe against Russia's 8,000 at the time the U. S. jet was shot down over Germany; and at a time when other planes have been menaced in other areas.

Most significant part of the drastic order is that budget cuts are based on the assumption "that combat will continue at not less than the present rate" for the next two years. In other words, the White House takes a pessimistic view of the Koreans fighting—despite certain hopes and statements made last fall.

The Truman defense budget, which Secretary of Defense Wilson recently said he could not cut, called for $45.5 billion of military spending for the fiscal year 1954. That's the year beginning July 1. The National Security Council, on an order from Budget Director Joe Dodge, now proposes to reduce this to $41.2 billion. The heads of the Army, Navy and Air Force are given only three weeks in which to make this cut. Furthermore the secret order discusses the "expenditures" budget, not the appropriations to be passed by Congress. In other words, the memo discussed actual cuts in military spending.

Here is the order, dated March 9, 1953, sent by Deputy Secretary Kyes to the secretaries of the Army, Navy, and Air Force:

Deadline: March 24

"At the National Security Council meeting on 4 March 1953 it was agreed that there would be an exploration and appraisal of the effect of approaching a balanced budget by fiscal year 1954 and achieving a balanced budget in fiscal year 1955. As part of this study, the Department was directed to submit to the council by 24 March 1953 a statement as to (1) revisions in the programs which would be necessary to reduce them to certain specified expenditure levels, and (2) the effect of these revisions in relation to currently approved national security policies and objectives.

"As a basis for this study, the director of the Bureau of the Budget proposed, and the council agreed, that certain assumed total expenditure limits should be assigned the executive departments and agencies. For the Department of Defense, the amount allocated on an expenditure basis is $41.2 billion for fiscal year 1954 and $34.6 billion- for fiscal year 1955. There was also an allocation made for the Mutual Security program, and the position which was subsequently sub-allocated for military assistance on an expenditure basis is $4.3 billion for fiscal year 1954 and $3.1 billion for fiscal year 1955.

"It is requested that each of the military departments prepare a statement, supported by a detailed cost category statement, indicating the forces that could be maintained with these expenditures, taking into account the following asumptions: (A) that basic units and combat strength be maintained wherever possible, and reductions first applied to overhead personnel and the less necessary projects with, however, proper emphasis placed on modernization of equipment; (B) that the uncollected balance in the ordnance procurement account of the Army management fund shall remain during the succeeding two fiscal years at the same level as 30 June 1953; (C) that expenditures will be made of unspent working funds administered by other agencies; (D) that combat will continue at not less than the present rate during the two year period under consideration; (E) that full consideration will be given to the effect of funds which would be spent during the period involved under the military assistance program and forces achieved as a result of our combined efforts with our allies.

Wide-Open Instructions

"The Joint Chiefs of Staff are requested to review the statements provided by each of the military departments and to provide this office no later than 0900 on 20 March 1953:

"(A) Recommendations regarding any adjustments within or between the military departments in the military composition or support of the forces proposed by the military departments which in their opinion would increase the ability of the U. S. to carry out its current policies and commitments within the total expenditure allocation to the Department of Defense.

"(B) Evaluation of the capabilities of such forces to carry out presently approved policies and commitments.

"(C) Evaluation of the nature and extent of modifications that would need to be made in presently approved policies and commitments."

NOTE—The instructions to the Joint Chiefs, it will be noted, open the door wide for them to revise the whole defense structure. In other words, they could throw out supercarriers or do whatever they think best to keep military spending within the $41.2-billion limit. This means such drastic cuts that you can almost see the baldheaded shadow of budget-cutter Louis Johnson stalking the Pentagon corridors again.

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON —Administration foreign policy leaders, and the wiser heads in Congress, are privately urging caution in the West's attitude toward the two aerial shooting incidents over Allied occupation zones in Germany.

Hopes are being freely expressed that the two attacks by Communist planes within two days constitute a coincidence and not a pattern of provocation instigated by the new Soviet regime.

Both the administration and Congress take the most serious view of the occurrences which have seen an American and a British plane shot out of the skies by MIG-15 jet fighters. There is no disposition to pull punches in diplomatic notes of protest.

However, there is a genuine tendency to attribute the shootings to the notably trigger-happy Red airmen, at least until a pattern of intentional, inspired provocation can be established. Should this last prove to be the case, the Western powers will be faced with a situation fully as explosive as the Berlin blockade.

Quiet Please

Since he took office January 20, President Eisenhower has received hundreds of speaking invitations. So far, none has been accepted and the chances are they won't be for some time to come.

Of course, one big reason for this is that the President is far too busy for all the states and local Republican groups which have asked him to address them. However, there is still another, bigger reason for Mr. Eisenhower's silence in this respect.

The GOP realizes it has a tough roe to hoe if it is to enlarge on or even keep its congressional majorities in 1954. In addition, it is expected that Republican gubernatorial candidates that year will face stiff Democratic opposition.

Therefore, the party's high command has decided to throw as much of the political spotlight as it can spare on these potential and actual candidates for lesser office. Officials believe it is never too early to start this part of the campaigning. And, they think an appearance by the President would distract from the political stature of congressional and gubernatorial candidates.

Atomic Artillery

The announcement that the atomic cannon will be fired during the spring tests in Nevada may be the Army's bid to regain stature and voice in the Pentagon through its ability to deliver an atomic explosion regardless of aerial weather conditions.

The Air Force has, since the dropping of the first bomb, taken the lead in all discussions over its use because it is the service that heretofore has had to take it to its destination.

Both the Army and the Navy had to take a back seat in many instances when the Air Force wanted money or men because the flyers were able to produce the fact that they had the only means of delivering an atomic explosion.

Proof Perfect

A Senate Democrat contends he has the perfect proof the Republicans do not expect to stay long in Washington.

Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington told a group of fellow party members recently he has this indication they expect a short tenure in power:

"The Republicans, astute and business-like as they are, are renting apartments—they are not buying houses."

Jackson's own opinion is that the Democrats' "return to leadership will take place in something less than four years."

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — It is coming as something of a surprise to many people here to learn that there really is a Republican President in the White House. They have gotten so used to the dictorial and intolerant attitude of Democratic Presidents in the last 20 years toward Congress that when Dwight Eisenhower refuses to get into a fight with Congress but prefers instead to respect it as a coordinate branch of the government, they say he is surrendering his prerogatives.

There are lots of people in the New Deal and Fair Deal group who for years have regarded Congress as a secondary and unimportant institution to be browbeaten or ridiculed, while the chief executive has been exalted as if he had the powers of a dictator. There are people here who really believe the executive power is such that it must be absolute and that the elected representatives of the people must follow a White House leader on everything.

Checks And Balances

Over in Germany in the '30's they taught the doctrine of "our leader" to the point where the national legislative body became a rubber stamp. Fortunately under the American system, the Congress and the Supreme Court and the Presidency constitute a three-headed form of government deliberately created by our forefathers to prevent one branch from encroaching on another.

It may be novel, but certainly it is no sin for members of the Senate to want to take a look at a Presidential nomination. Otherwise, the constitutional requirement that important appointments can be valid only if "the advice and consent" of the Senate has been obtained would be meaningless. What else does "advice and consent" mean but examination of all the facts?

Not long ago critics of the administration were applauding because the appointment of a secretary of Defense was carefully examined before confirmation. Today, when some senators want to look into the background of a man chosen to be ambassador to Soviet Russia in these troublous times, the impression is conveyed that this is somehow out of order and that a President's selection for ambassador is sacrosanct and not subject to careful investigation and prolonged debate if necessary before confirmation is voted or refused.

There is also the general power of Congress to investigate which is being criticized. Persistent efforts have been made by sympathizers with the New Deal and the Truman "red herring" attitude toward subversives in the government to persuade President Eisenhower to denounce all such inquiries. But Congress appropriates the money for executive departments and agencies of the government and has a right to check on what is happening to the taxpayers' money and to see if laws that bar subversives from the government are being enforced.

Whenever a member of Congress expresses a viewpoint different from the executive, the tendency of the Roosevelt-Truman-indoctrinated folks around here is to magnify it into a piece of serious friction or a first-class row. Yet the Constitution says that only the House of Representatives may originate tax legislation — not the President and not the Senate. Who has a better right to advocate tax reduction than Representative Reed, of New York, Republican, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee?

The theory that Mr. Eisenhower has been elected "leader" of both Congress and the executive branch is fallacious. One of the finest things about the new President is his respect for the rights of Congress. He can, of course, express at any time his own views on tax laws he may intend to sign or veto, but even a Democratic President who vetoed a tax bill found that two-thirds of Congress, under the leadership of Alben Barkley, overrode that veto.

Distortion Of Fact

It has been said that foreign policy is the exclusive province of the President. That is a distortion of fact. The President, under the Constitution, has the exclusive right to communicate with or carry on negotiations with foreign governments, but the Constitution also says that when an agreement is reached the treaty can be ratified only by the "advice and consent" of the Senate, expressed by a two-thirds vote.

There are some disadvantages, to be sure, in a separation of the powers of the executive and legislative branches of the government, but until the Constitution is amended to consolidate the executive and legislative into a single government, as is done under a parliamentary system, there can be no recognition of the executive as superior to the legislative branch of government. Each still has its own responsibility.

It is a lesson in the American form of government which is being ignored by many who keep on assuming that Mr. Eisenhower has been elected dictator of the entire government, including Congress. Party responsibility in legislation is desirable, but where international affairs are concerned and where the public interest must rise above party, the rights of Congress are as important as the rights of the executive.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

They Are People, Too

Professors and clergymen are people, too. They do not limit their human relations to the functional vocations by which they earn their livelihoods. They have human passions and they suffer from human foibles; they love and hate; some are wise in the ways of the world, some are stupid in many things outside their chosen spheres.

In a word, professors and clergymen are not an elite apart and different from all other citizens. Even as you and I, they are human. This discovery may shock some of them.

Recently, Congressman Harold H. Velde said something about looking into the doings of the clergy and immediately a hue and cry went forth about religious freedom. If a clergyman committed a murder, as has sometimes happened, no one relates that to the sanctity of religion. It means only that one clergyman was irreligious and permitted his human passions to mislead him. A sinner, he must take the consequences of his wrongdoing, here and hereafter, the same as any other murderer would have to.

Actually, to assume otherwise would, in itself, be a violation of the Commandments, because it would make of this servant of God a deity, a god on earth, not a man but a creature beyond man. No self-respecting clergyman of any church of God would permit anyone to so insult him.

Therefore, while several years ago, when lists of those endorsing Communist purposes appeared in the "Daily Worker," they contained few names of the clergy, today, by actual count, the clergy show up with about 50 per cent of all names.

This phenomenon requires analysis and study and that is being done by those who are concerned with Communist infiltration in the United States.

Several explanations are given for this:

1. Many clergymen are deeply moved by the need for peace in the world. While they are not necessarily Communists, they are going through the process of joining committees and signing pet' ns which are Communist-inspired and directed. Many an actor or professor got himself into trouble for joining with Communists in causes which seemed innocent and humane but were designed to harm America.

It is impossible to say that a Christian minister should not support a peace movement if that is what his conscience dictates. Yet, as a man and a citizen, whatever his vocation, when he permits himself to become a pawn in the Communist effort to destroy the American will to resist the forces for our destruction as a people, forces formerly directed by Stalin and now by Malenkov, then he becomes a peril to our civilization and, again whatever his vocation, he must suffer the consequences of his decisions.

2. In a free society there are no orthodox and no unorthodox opinions. A man may believe what he wishes to believe and may express his views as he chooses. He is responsible for his own decisions whatever they may be.

The current use of the term, "unorthodox views," is an absurdity in the American society because there are no orthodox views. No one can say what is orthodox. Was William Jennings Bryan orthodox when he ran against William McKinley? Yet Bryan led a great political party and he might have been elected President. He did serve as secretary of State.

In a thought-controlled state, like Soviet Russia, unorthodox views lead to purges, imprisonment and even death. In the United States when men disagree, they argue, they debate. But there is no state intervention in anyone's private life, except when the American acts as an agent for a foreign power. Then he ceases to be a free man; he is a slave to his alien masters who use him to destroy us.

That has nothing to do with orthodox or unorthodox opinions. It does have to do with destructive conduct designed to break down our society. It is revolutionary action with the purpose of subjecting the minds of our people to the will of an organized conspiracy.

There was a time when men, in this country, could take a soapbox, pick a corner, and hurl hatred against our way of life with impunity. It meant nothing more than a scratch on granite with a penknife.

But when a foreign power uses our own sons and daughters as instruments for our destruction, then we need to know what is going on.

Chicago Firm Low Bidder On River Dam Work

The low bidder on the Potomac River dam in the fourth phase of the Cumberland - Ridgeley Flood Control Project is the E. J. Albrecht Company of Chicago, it was learned yesterday.

The Chicago firm is currently finishing up the third phase of the project which is lining Wills Creek with concrete paving from the Esso bulk plant in the Narrows to the Western Maryland Railway bridge at City Junction.

The bid of the Albrecht firm for the dam across the Potomac connecting Riverside Park and Ridgeley was reliably reported to have been $855,695.

Next lowest was submitted by the Dravo Corporation of Pittsburgh,—$869,605.

The only local contractor bidding on the job, the George F. Hazelwood Company, with the third lowest figure, $938,965.

Highest bid was submitted by the Vang Construction Company of Pittsburgh with $1,073,895.

The sealed proposals were opened yesterday afternoon in the office of the District Engineer, Corps of Army Engineers, in Washington.

One of the stipulations of the specifications is that the water level in the river must be dammed to its present height all during the work.

This, a Corps of Army Engineers spokesman, pointed out, is to maintain water for the River Plant of Potomac Edison Company.

The specifications state the old dam across the river and Wills Creek must not be removed until the new dam is completed.

One of the ticklish jobs in connection with this work will be holding back the water. In projects of similar nature coffer dams are erected to wall back the water and allow work to proceed on the bed of the river.

In some instances, cell-type coffer dams are built from wood, are hollow and filled to a certain height with rocks and dirt to hold them down.

The channel will not be deepened the Corps of Army Engineers reported. However, the base of the dam will be grouted into the rock in the river bed.

Work will begin on the Maryland Side of the river with the construction of an abutment and wing walls.

The specifications call for a "substantial" amount of the work to be completed by July 1.

On the top of the dam will be the bases for a bridge which will be constructed by the state roads commissions of Maryland and West Virginia.

Equity Suit Filed

An equity suit was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bill of complaint was titled Frances A. Smith vs. Walter E. Smith.

County And Welfare Boards Against Public Aid Lists

Members of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and the County Welfare Board went on record Thursday as being opposed to Senate Bill 292 which would provide that the names and addresses of all persons on public welfare be available as a public record. The amounts of assistance they receive would also be on the record.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the commissioners, appeared at a committee hearing in Annapolis on the proposed law and he presented the viewpoint of the two boards. The legislation was introduced by Senators Hoff and Turnbull.

Getty pointed out that the names and addresses of all public welfare clients are available to the state's attorney's office, the county commissioners and other authorized agencies. Others who wish to consult these records can do so, if they have a legitimate reason and are not just "morbidly curious," Getty said.

The proponents of the bill claim it would "scare off" persons who are ineligible for public relief and thus save the taxpayers money. Getty pointed out that there were about 10 cases in the Circuit Court here during the past two years in which persons were convicted of defrauding the Welfare Board in obtaining funds for which they were not entitled.

"The publication of the names of these persons in newspapers at the time of the trial did more to deter others than the legislation proposed by Senators Hoff and Turnbull," Getty declared.

"The idea behind the legislation is contrary to the granting of relief to the needy public and does not follow the purpose of public welfare at all," Getty pointed out.

"Embarrassment to persons on relief rolls would result if their names and addresses were made public record," he said. Getty also pointed out that relief is given to dependent children in placing them in foster homes and this does much to combat the trend towards juvenile delinquency.

The names of all persons who receive all or part of their income from the county government, such as teachers, public health nurses, court attaches, road workers, judges and all other public employes should also be made public record if the same reasoning is applied as that in the bill on relief clients, Getty pointed out.

Several other features of the bill were termed unsatisfactory by Getty. The legislation would give local welfare boards the authority to determine regulations and amount of assistance to needy blind persons.

"With the program set up on a state-wide basis this would not be workable. We could possibly have 23 different amounts and regulations for as many counties," he said.

Former Dairy Co-Op Leader Succumbs At 76

BALTIMORE, March 20 (AP)—Dr. Robert W. Shermantine, retired physician and for 25 years an officer of the Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers Association, died today.

He was 76 and had been in failing health for more than a year. He became a patient at Johns Hopkins Hospital several weeks ago.

Dr. Shermantine retired as manager of the milk cooperative in November of 1951, retired to his 559-acre dairy and turkey farm at the Baltimore county town of Sparks.

At that time, he had been manager, treasurer and secretary of the milk producers' association for 13 years, having given up his medical practice in 1938 to devote full time to the job.

The association is made up of dairy farmers in the 23 counties of Maryland and a small slice of the southern edge of Pennsylvania. It bargains for the farmers in their price negotiations with the dairies and during his years as manager Dr. Shermantine was perhaps the key man in setting the price of milk in the state.

He had served as president from 1933 to 1938, and had been a member of the board even before.

"He was born in St. Mary's county, at the town of California.

He abhored subsidies, price supports and controls on the price of milk, saying at the time he retired as the cooperative's manager:

"Young fellows enter this life with halters around their necks, the way the government is run now. Tell me, just when will shoes, and steel and everything else one buys come down?"

He is survived by his widow and two sisters, Mrs. F. D. Hayden and Mrs. Katie Stevens, both of Great Mills.

Former Dairy Co-Op Leader Succumbs At 76

BALTIMORE, March 20 (AP)—Dr. Robert W. Shermantine, retired physician and for 25 years an officer of the Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers Association, died today.

He was 76 and had been in failing health for more than a year. He became a patient at Johns Hopkins Hospital several weeks ago.

Dr. Shermantine retired as manager of the milk cooperative in November of 1951, retired to his 550-acre dairy and turkey farm at the Baltimore county town of Sparks.

At that time, he had been manager, treasurer and secretary of the milk producers' association for 13 years, having given up his medical practice in 1938 to devote full time to the job.

The association is made up of dairy farmers in the 23 counties of Maryland and a small slice of the southern edge of Pennsylvania. It bargains for the farmers in their price negotiations with the dairies and during his years as manager Dr. Shermantine was perhaps the key man in setting the price of milk in the state.

He had served as president from 1933 to 1938, and had been a member of the board even before.

He was born in St. Mary's county, at the town of California.

He abhored subsidies, price supports and controls on the price of milk, saying at the time he retired as the cooperative's manager:

"Young fellows enter this life with halters around their necks, the way the government is run now. Tell me, just when will shoes, and steel and everything else one buys come down?"

He is survived by his widow and two sisters, Mrs. F. D. Hayden and Mrs. Katie Stevens, both of Great Mills.

Terry Convicted; Gets Mental Test

BALTIMORE, March 20 (AP)—Sentencing of Robert Lee Terry, 17, of Brooklyn, N.Y., on a first degree murder conviction was postponed today pending a mental examination ordered by the court.

The young Negro was convicted earlier today of the 75-cent murder-robbery of Miss Leonore M. Naylor, 60-year-old Baltimore librarian.

Chief Judge W. Conwell Smith and Judge Charles E. Moylan presided at the case without a jury at the request of the defense.

The conviction calls for either hanging or life imprisonment.

W.A.C. Hughes Jr., Negro defense counsel, said he would ask for a review of the case before the Baltimore Supreme Bench on a new trial motion.

The prosecution based a major portion of its case on a statement admitted into evidence which they claimed was Terry's confession that he killed the popular librarian in a 75-cent robbery.

The statement was not signed by Terry, but officers testified that he initialed several pages of the stenographic copy in making corrections.

Terry took the stand this morning to deny that he stabbed Miss Naylor. He claimed that he was in a moving picture theater the night of Jan. 21 when the crime occurred.

Terry Convicted; Gets Mental Test

BALTIMORE, March 20 (AP)—Sentencing of Robert Lee Terry, 17, of Brooklyn, N.Y., on a first degree murder conviction was postponed today pending a mental examination ordered by the court.

The young Negro was convicted earlier today of the 75-cent murder-robbery of Miss Leonore M. Naylor, 60-year-old Baltimore librarian.

Chief Judge W. Conwell Smith and Judge Charles E. Moylan presided at the case without a jury at the request of the defense.

The conviction calls for either hanging or life imprisonment.

W.A.C. Hughes Jr., Negro defense counsel, said he would ask for a review of the case before the Baltimore Supreme Bench on a new trial motion.

The prosecution based a major portion of its case on a statement admitted into evidence which they claimed was Terry's confession that he killed the popular librarian in a 75-cent robbery.

The statement was not signed by Terry, but officers testified that he initialed several pages of the stenographic copy in making corrections.

Terry took the stand this morning to deny that he stabbed Miss Naylor. He claimed that he was in a moving picture theater the night of Jan. 21 when the crime occurred.

Senator Asks Curbs On Radio, Television To Protect Minors

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) today introduced a bill aimed at helping baseball's minor leagues stop network telecasts and broadcasts of major league games in their areas.

Johnson, president of the Western League and long a spokesman for the minor circuits, told the Senate that without such legislation "we are through."

Johnson's bill would legalize the re-adoption of a baseball rule in existence before 1949.

This rule provided that no major league club could authorize broadcasts or telecasts of its games within the home territory of a minor league club unless the latter consented. Home territory was defined as the area within 50 miles of the minor league club's park.

Johnson said the rule was repealed in 1949 because the anti-trust division of the Justice Department called in baseball executives and told them it violated the anti-trust laws.

Bratton Stops Jones In 5th

Johnny Takes Licking Then Nails Opponent

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—Hard-hitting Johnny Bratton of Chicago came from behind tonight to knock out Bobby Jones of Oakland, Calif., in 2:52 of the fifth round of a nationally televised bout at Madison Square Garden. Bratton weighed 149 to Jones' 152.

Although he was dazed, Jones punched back at his keyed up opponent. That was his undoing.

Bratton clipped him with a terrific left hook to the jaw and Jones fell on his back.

He staggered to his feet as Referee Ray Miller counted ten and then sagged against the ropes.

Up until the fifth, it looked like Jones was going to spring an upset just as his stablemate, Ralph (Tiger) Jones, pulled on Bratton last Dec. 5.

Scoring effectively with a long left jab and occasional rights and then switching to a crowding style which gave Bratton no punching room, Jones swept the first two rounds and the fourth.

He also had third wrapped up until he ran into a right to the chin which staggered him.

In the fourth, Jones elected to trade punch for punch with his harder hitting rival and although he won that round Bratton's blows apparently softened him for the kill in the fifth.

A crowd of 4,275 paid $12,975 and saw a good lively scrap.

Athens Annexes West Virginia's Class B Crown

Defeats Hundred In Finals, 47-40

MORGANTOWN, March 20 (AP) — Jimmy Rogers, a 6-1 senior who was the coolest individual in the fieldhouse, led Concord Training of Athens to the state Class B cage title today with a 47-40 victory over Hundred.

The deliberate Rogers wiped out, with two swishing set shots, a 27-26 Hundred lead late in the third period — when the losers were threatening to take charge — and it was all Concord after that.

The defeat in a generally ragged contest ended a string of seven consecutive tournament victories for the surprising Hundred five, which lost nine of 20 regular-season games.

It also blasted the centurians' hopes of at least partially repeating their 1930 accomplishment of crashing all the way to the state crown in days when there was no division between Class A and B schools.

The triumph was Concord Training's second in the B ranks. The Trojans also won in 1950.

Rogers finished with 21 points. Topping Hundred's scorers was Junior Moore with 13.

Fred Hawkins Paces Tourney

Illinois Pro Posts 65 At Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 20 (AP)—Fred Hawkins sank a 125-yard number 9 iron shot for an eagle on the last hole to take the opening day lead in the Jacksonville Open golf tournament today.

Hawkins, 29-year-old native of Illinois who plays out of El Paso, Texas, scored his 65 — seven under par over the 6,508-yard Hyde Park municipal course — in mid afternoon.

It held up against the assault of dozens of tournament-wise veterans who were more highly regarded.

Sam Snead, twice winner of the Jacksonville Open, was four over par on the first four holes and then made one of the finest recoveries ever seen with a 31 on the second nine to post a 69 for the first of the four rounds in the 72 hole tournament.

J. Hebert, former Louisiana State University golfer playing out of Erie, Pa., was second to Hawkins with 33-33—66. Hebert putted well all the way around, scoring six birdies and 12 pars.

Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill., and Art Doering, Cincinnati, tied for third at 67. Several others were bunched within three strokes.

Baltimore Mayor Blasts Mr. Mack, Clark Griffith

Says They Should Hide Their Heads In Shame

BALTIMORE, March 20. (INS)—Baltimore's mayor Thomas D'Alesandro blasted top men in baseball today with the charge that "greed" blocked the transfer of the St. Louis Browns to Baltimore.

D'Alesandro declared that Clark Griffith of the Washington Nationals and Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics should "hide their heads in shame" for the part he said they played in the unsuccessful move earlier this week to accomplish the transfer.

He also scored Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League, for allegedly demanding a million dollars to permit the move.

The mayor said: "If it comes to war in this thing, I want to say to Griffith and Connie Mack, whom I've idolized all my life, that it is time for them to hide their heads in shame. There is nothing behind this but greed and personalities."

In another salvo, this time at Shaughnessy, he said: Shaughnessy is paid by us from admission to Oriole games. I call on 'Shag' to explain why Milwaukee could get away with $50,000 and he wanted a million from Baltimore."

D'Alesandro added: "The American Association took only $50,000 to let the (Boston) Braves move into Milwaukee, didn't it? Where does the International League get this million-dollar business?"

As You Were

(This is the 102nd in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

Here is an Allegany county heavyweight boxer of bygone days who won two bouts in one night in July 1920 and startled the fistic world by whipping a top ranking fighter in the second match of that "doubleheader" at Newark, N. J.

He knocked out Eddie Williams in the second round. In the main event on the same card Capt. Bob Roper, a good heavy of that era, was disqualified for fouling Charley Weinert with a low blow in the third round. To satisfy the fans, this young scrapper took on Roper and gave the latter a pasting in eight rounds.

Roper had engaged in no decision bouts or whipped such topnotchers at Tommy Gibbons, Chuck Wiggins, Gunboat Smith, Bob Martin, Frank Moran, Bill Brennan and Carl Morris.

This young athlete attended LaSalle Institute, played baseball at Eckhart, was all-Virginia tackle at Staunton Military Academy in 1917 and also played football at Davis & Elkins College.

In 1916 as an inexperienced ringman he was knocked out by Fay Keiser in the second round of a bout at the old Cumberland Fair Grounds. Abe Uhlman of Baltimore was the referee. Quite a bit of cash changed hands on the outcome of this match.

During the First World War he was commissioned a first lieutenant and he assisted the famous Mike Gibbons, then boxing instructor at Camp Gordon, Va.

After the war he boxed around Pittsburgh and won a lot of fights. Then he moved to Newark, N. J., where he was a big drawing card. It was there he won two bouts in one night. He returned here in 1920 and boxed a 10-round draw with Fay Keiser at South End Park. Sammy Morgan was the referee, the show grossed $4,435 and this boxer collected $1,100 as his share. The same year he lost a decision to Harry Greb in 10 rounds at Exposition Hall, Pittsburgh, whipped Clay Turner, the Indian; decisioned Johnny Saxon, stoppel Carl LeBlanche, the Belgian heavy, and boxed a draw with Herman Miller of Baltimore.

On December 7, 1920 tragedy brought an end to his career. In the sixth round of a bout at Jersey City he was floored by Al Roberts of Staten Island, N. Y., and when his head struck the thinly padded canvas he was knocked unconscious. He died six hours later in City Hospital of internal hemorrhages at the base of the skull. It was his tenth big fight and was refereed by Harry Ertle. Gov. Edwards of New Jersey and Mayor Hague of Jersey City witnessed the tragic match. Roberts was managed by Billy Gibson, who also handled Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion from 1917 to 1924.

One of the spectators at the ringside that night was Billy McCarney, manager of Luther McCarthy who met death in a bout with Arthur Pelky in Canada in 1913.

The athlete pictured here is one of two Allegany county boxers who met death in the ring. What is this fighter's name?

(Hoohee: Ernest Quigley.)

3—Wee Willie Keeler in explaining his great hitting (he averaged .432 in one season).

His body was returned to Eckhart and was buried in St. Michael's Cemetery, Frostburg. The photo of McMillan was taken in 1915 when he played baseball for an Eckhart nine managed by Bernard J. Byrnes, brother of Johnny Byrnes, star first sacker of Cumberland Colt teams.

Senator Proposes Legal Betting On Auto, Dog Racing

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 20 (AP) — The first pari-mutuel betting on other than horse racing in Maryland was sought today by Sen. bailey for his county of St. Mary's.

The Republican senator proposed legal betting on stock car and dog racing.

His bill introduced in the General Assembly would set up the St. Mary's County Commission as the licensing and administrative agency. All horse racing is run by a state commission.

Bailey's bill would direct that 15 per cent be cut from the betting. The county would get 5 per cent and the track 10 per cent.

There is stock car racing, but no dog racing in Maryland now.

Parkersburg Wins Over Grafton, 84-58

MORGANTOWN, March 20 (AP)—Little 5-8 Bill Collier turned in one of the State Class A cage tournament's classic performances tonight in leading Beckley to a 71-64 victory over Morgantown and into the finals for the third straight year.

The last-quarter triumph by the defending titlists followed Parkersburg's 84-58 triumph over Grafton in which the Big Reds stunned their much smaller foe with 14 straight points in the first and second periods.

Beckley thus goes after an unprecedented third straight crown in the 40th annual meet's title clash tomorrow at 1:30. Parkersburg is a finalist in its first trip to the tournament since it won the title in 1932.

Collier ruined Morgantown's hopes with an almost unbelievable exhibition of set shooting from behind the key.

He pumped in 29 points, hitting for 1 field goals. His back court generalship was superb, and his clutch shooting, in particular, was among the best ever exhibited here.

The Beckley captain saved his payoff effort for the late moments. His two quick baskets from behind the circle wiped out a 59-58 Morgantown lead and sent Beckley ahead to stay in the see-saw action at 62-59 with 2:42 to play.

Adolph Rupp, Two Gamblers Named In Suit

Woman Seeks Triple Damages For Brother's Losses In Betting

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 20 (AP)—A Federal Court lawsuit asking triple damages of more than half a million dollars for alleged gambling losses today named as co-defendants University of Kentucky basketball Coach Adolph Rupp, gambler Frank Costello and Ed Curd, reputed former Lexington bookmaker.

Rupp, Kentucky's coach for 24 years, immediately branded the suit a "smear campaign" and asserted his innocence of any connection with gambling.

Costello, spotlighted during the Senate Crime Committee investigation, is now in the federal correctional institution at Milan, Mich., serving 18 months for contempt of Congress.

Federal authorities reported Curd somewhere in Canada. He was indicted in Louisville earlier this month on income tax evasion charges.

Acts For Her Brother

Mrs. Lucille Chumbley Bradberry of Athens, Ga., brought the suit in behalf of her brother, George Chumbley, formerly of Richmond, Ky. Chumbley is one of the alleged losers in gambling operations the suit said were conducted by "Curd and his co-conspirators."

Kentucky law provides that a disinterested party may sue for triple damages in gambling losses.

Mrs. Bradberry asked $573,257.79 which is triple the amount the suit said was "lost in betting and gambling with the co-conspirators in the city of Lexington and in the city of Richmond."

Charges Fraudulent Scheme

The suit alleged that Curd, Rupp and Costello "concocted a fraudulent and debasing scheme of gambling in schools, colleges and university sports and athletics" and "seduced student leaders and players to betray their institutions and devotees of the institutions and college sports."

The petition contended that one of the group's methods of operation involved "manipulation and fakement" of point spreads in basketball games.

Rupp's statement asserted: "Of all the smear campaigns that ever have been conducted against anyone, this is the rottenest. It is evidently a well-organized campaign aimed entirely to discredit me. The timing of everything has been perfect."

Timed With Tourney

Rupp, produced of three unofficial national championship teams at Kentucky, did not say why he felt anyone would want to discredit him. His reference to "timing" apparently was made because the state high school basketball tournament is in progress here.

Rupp said he did not know Mrs. Bradberry or her brother.

The alleged losses mentioned in the suit occurred from April, 1948, through 1951. Losses in one month amounted to $30,650, the suit said.

Three former Kentucky players —Ralph Beard, Alex Groza and Dale Barnstable-pleaded guilty last year in New York that they kept down scores in games after being paid by gamblers.

Judge Linked Pair

But before suspending the sentences, Judge Streit linked Curd and Rupp publicly.

Quoting testimony before the grand jury which investigated the basketball fixes, the jurist contended Rupp consulted Curd on the "point spread" established by gamblers on Kentucky's basketball games.

Senator Asks Curbs On Radio, Television To Protect Minors

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) today introduced a bill aimed at helping baseball's minor leagues stop network telecasts and broadcasts of major league games in their areas.

Johnson, president of the Western League and long a spokesman for the minor circuits, told the Senate that without such legislation "we are through."

Johnson's bill would legalize the re-adoption of a baseball rule in existence before 1949.

This rule provided that no major league club could authorize broadcasts or telecasts of its games within the home territory of a minor league club unless the latter consented. Home territory was defined as the area within 50 miles of the minor league club's park.

Johnson said the rule was repealed in 1949 because the anti-trust division of the Justice Department called in baseball executives and told them it violated the anti-trust laws.

Bratton Stops Jones In 5th

Johnny Takes Licking Then Nails Opponent

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—Hard-hitting Johnny Bratton of Chicago came from behind tonight to knock out Bobby Jones of Oakland, Calif., in 2:52 of the fifth round of a nationally televised bout at Madison Square Garden. Bratton weighed 149 to Jones' 152.

Although he was dazed, Jones punched back at his keyed up opponent. That was his undoing.

Bratton clipped him with a terrific left hook to the jaw and Jones fell on his back.

He staggered to his feet as Referee Ray Miller counted ten and then sagged against the ropes.

Up until the fifth, it looked like Jones was going to spring an upset just as his stablemate, Ralph (Tiger) Jones, pulled on Bratton last Dec. 5.

Scoring effectively with a long left jab and occasional rights and then switching to a crowding style which gave Bratton no punching room, Jones swept the first two rounds and the fourth.

He also had third wrapped up until he ran into a right to the chin which staggered him.

In the fourth, Jones elected to trade punch for punch with his harder hitting rival and although he won that round Bratton's blows apparently softened him for the kill in the fifth.

A crowd of 4,275 paid $12,975 and saw a good lively scrap.

Athens Annexes West Virginia's Class B Crown

Defeats Hundred In Finals, 47-40

MORGANTOWN, March 20 (AP) — Jimmy Rogers, a 6-1 senior who was the coolest individual in the fieldhouse, led Concord Training of Athens to the state Class B cage title today with a 47-40 victory over Hundred.

The deliberate Rogers wiped out, with two swishing set shots, a 27-26 Hundred lead late in the third period — when the losers were threatening to take charge — and it was all Concord after that.

The defeat in a generally ragged contest ended a string of seven consecutive tournament victories for the surprising Hundred five, which lost nine of 20 regular-season games.

It also blasted the centurians' hopes of at least partially repeating their 1930 accomplishment of crashing all the way to the state crown in days when there was no division between Class A and B schools.

The triumph was Concord Training's second in the B ranks. The Trojans also won in 1950.

Rogers finished with 21 points. Topping Hundred's scorers was Junior Moore with 13.

Fred Hawkins Paces Tourney

Illinois Pro Posts 65 At Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 20 (AP)—Fred Hawkins sank a 125-yard number 9 iron shot for an eagle on the last hole to take the opening day lead in the Jacksonville Open golf tournament today.

Hawkins, 29-year-old native of Illinois who plays out of El Paso, Texas, scored his 65 — seven under par over the 6,508-yard Hyde Park municipal course — in mid afternoon.

It held up against the assault of dozens of tournament-wise veterans who were more highly regarded.

Sam Snead, twice winner of the Jacksonville Open, was four over par on the first four holes and then made one of the finest recoveries ever seen with a 31 on the second nine to post a 69 for the first of the four rounds in the 72 hole tournament.

J. Hebert, former Louisiana State University golfer playing out of Erie, Pa., was second to Hawkins with 33-33—66. Hebert putted well all the way around, scoring six birdies and 12 pars.

Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill., and Art Doering, Cincinnati, tied for third at 67. Several others were bunched within three strokes.

Senator Proposes Legal Betting On Auto, Dog Racing

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 20 (AP) — The first pari-mutuel betting on other than horse racing in Maryland was sought today by Sen. bailey for his county of St. Mary's.

The Republican senator proposed legal betting on stock car and dog racing.

His bill introduced in the General Assembly would set up the St. Mary's County Commission as the licensing and administrative agency. All horse racing is run by a state commission.

Bailey's bill would direct that 15 per cent be cut from the betting. The county would get 5 per cent and the track 10 per cent.

There is stock car racing, but no dog racing in Maryland now.

Baltimore Mayor Blasts Mr. Mack, Clark Griffith

Says They Should Hide Their Heads In Shame

BALTIMORE, March 20. (INS)—Baltimore's mayor Thomas D'Alesandro blasted top men in baseball today with the charge that "greed" blocked the transfer of the St. Louis Browns to Baltimore.

D'Alesandro declared that Clark Griffith of the Washington Nationals and Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics should "hide their heads in shame" for the part he said they played in the unsuccessful move earlier this week to accomplish the transfer.

He also scored Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League, for allegedly demanding a million dollars to permit the move.

The mayor said: "If it comes to war in this thing, I want to say to Griffith and Connie Mack, whom I've idolized all my life, that it is time for them to hide their heads in shame. There is nothing behind this but greed and personalities."

In another salvo, this time at Shaughnessy, he said: Shaughnessy is paid by us from admission to Oriole games. I call on 'Shag' to explain why Milwaukee could get away with $50,000 and he wanted a million from Baltimore."

D'Alesandro added: "The American Association took only $50,000 to let the (Boston) Braves move into Milwaukee, didn't it? Where does the International League get this million-dollar business?"

As You Were

(This is the 102nd in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

Here is an Allegany county heavyweight boxer of bygone days who won two bouts in one night in July 1920 and startled the fistic world by whipping a top ranking fighter in the second match of that "doubleheader" at Newark, N. J.

He knocked out Eddie Williams in the second round. In the main event on the same card Capt. Bob Roper, a good heavy of that era, was disqualified for fouling Charley Weinert with a low blow in the third round. To satisfy the fans, this young scrapper took on Roper and gave the latter a pasting in eight rounds.

Roper had engaged in no decision bouts or whipped such topnotchers at Tommy Gibbons, Chuck Wiggins, Gunboat Smith, Bob Martin, Frank Moran, Bill Brennan and Carl Morris.

This young athlete attended LaSalle Institute, played baseball at Eckhart, was all-Virginia tackle at Staunton Military Academy in 1917 and also played football at Davis & Elkins College.

In 1916 as an inexperienced ringman he was knocked out by Fay Keiser in the second round of a bout at the old Cumberland Fair Grounds. Abe Uhlman of Baltimore was the referee. Quite a bit of cash changed hands on the outcome of this match.

During the First World War he was commissioned a first lieutenant and he assisted the famous Mike Gibbons, then boxing instructor at Camp Gordon, Va.

After the war he boxed around Pittsburgh and won a lot of fights. Then he moved to Newark, N. J., where he was a big drawing card. It was there he won two bouts in one night. He returned here in 1920 and boxed a 10-round draw with Fay Keiser at South End Park. Sammy Morgan was the referee, the show grossed $4,435 and this boxer collected $1,100 as his share. The same year he lost a decision to Harry Greb in 10 rounds at Exposition Hall, Pittsburgh, whipped Clay Turner, the Indian; decisioned Johnny Saxon, stoppel Carl LeBlanche, the Belgian heavy, and boxed a draw with Herman Miller of Baltimore.

On December 7, 1920 tragedy brought an end to his career. In the sixth round of a bout at Jersey City he was floored by Al Roberts of Staten Island, N. Y., and when his head struck the thinly padded canvas he was knocked unconscious. He died six hours later in City Hospital of internal hemorrhages at the base of the skull. It was his tenth big fight and was refereed by Harry Ertle. Gov. Edwards of New Jersey and Mayor Hague of Jersey City witnessed the tragic match. Roberts was managed by Billy Gibson, who also handled Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion from 1917 to 1924.

One of the spectators at the ringside that night was Billy McCarney, manager of Luther McCarthy who met death in a bout with Arthur Pelky in Canada in 1913.

The athlete pictured here is one of two Allegany county boxers who met death in the ring. What is this fighter's name?

He is Raymond McMillan, of Eckhart, who adopted "Mickey Shannon" as his nom de guerre. He was 23 years old at the time of his death. His body was returned to Eckhart and was buried in St. Michael's Cemetery, Frostburg. The photo of McMillan was taken in 1915 when he played baseball for an Eckhart nine managed by Bernard J. Byrnes, brother of Johnny Byrnes, star first sacker of Cumberland Colt teams.

Beckley Defeats Morgantown Hi By Score 71-64

Parkersburg Wins Over Grafton, 84-58

MORGANTOWN, March 20 (AP)—Little 5-8 Bill Collier turned in one of the State Class A cage tournament's classic performances tonight in leading Beckley to a 71-64 victory over Morgantown and into the finals for the third straight year.

The last-quarter triumph by the defending titlists followed Parkersburg's 84-58 triumph over Grafton in which the Big Reds stunned their much smaller foe with 14 straight points in the first and second periods.

Beckley thus goes after an unprecedented third straight crown in the 40th annual meet's title clash tomorrow at 1:30. Parkersburg is a finalist in its first trip to the tournament since it won the title in 1932.

Collier ruined Morgantown's hopes with an almost unbelievable exhibition of set shooting from behind the key.

He pumped in 29 points, hitting for 1 field goals. His back court generalship was superb, and his clutch shooting, in particular, was among the best ever exhibited here.

The Beckley captain saved his payoff effort for the late moments. His two quick baskets from behind the circle wiped out a 59-58 Morgantown lead and sent Beckley ahead to stay in the see-saw action at 62-59 with 2:42 to play.

Adolph Rupp, Two Gamblers Named In Suit

Woman Seeks Triple Damages For Brother's Losses In Betting

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 20 (AP)—A Federal Court lawsuit asking triple damages of more than half a million dollars for alleged gambling losses today named as co-defendants University of Kentucky basketball Coach Adolph Rupp, gambler Frank Costello and Ed Curd, reputed former Lexington bookmaker.

Rupp, Kentucky's coach for 24 years, immediately branded the suit a "smear campaign" and asserted his innocence of any connection with gambling.

Costello, spotlighted during the Senate Crime Committee investigation, is now in the federal correctional institution at Milan, Mich., serving 18 months for contempt of Congress.

Federal authorities reported Curd somewhere in Canada. He was indicted in Louisville earlier this month on income tax evasion charges.

Acts For Her Brother

Mrs. Lucille Chumbley Bradberry of Athens, Ga., brought the suit in behalf of her brother, George Chumbley, formerly of Richmond, Ky. Chumbley is one of the alleged losers in gambling operations the suit said were conducted by "Curd and his co-conspirators."

Kentucky law provides that a disinterested party may sue for triple damages in gambling losses.

Mrs. Bradberry asked $573,257.79 which is triple the amount the suit said was "lost in betting and gambling with the co-conspirators in the city of Lexington and in the city of Richmond."

Charges Fraudulent Scheme

The suit alleged that Curd, Rupp and Costello "concocted a fraudulent and debasing scheme of gambling in schools, colleges and university sports and athletics" and "seduced student leaders and players to betray their institutions and devotees of the institutions and college sports."

The petition contended that one of the group's methods of operation involved "manipulation and fakement" of point spreads in basketball games.

Rupp's statement asserted: "Of all the smear campaigns that ever have been conducted against anyone, this is the rottenest. It is evidently a well-organized campaign aimed entirely to discredit me. The timing of everything has been perfect."

Timed With Tourney

Rupp, produced of three unofficial national championship teams at Kentucky, did not say why he felt anyone would want to discredit him. His reference to "timing" apparently was made because the state high school basketball tournament is in progress here.

Rupp said he did not know Mrs. Bradberry or her brother.

The alleged losses mentioned in the suit occurred from April, 1948, through 1951. Losses in one month amounted to $30,650, the suit said.

Three former Kentucky players —Ralph Beard, Alex Groza and Dale Barnstable-pleaded guilty last year in New York that they kept down scores in games after being paid by gamblers.

Judge Linked Pair

But before suspending the sentences, Judge Streit linked Curd and Rupp publicly.

Quoting testimony before the grand jury which investigated the basketball fixes, the jurist contended Rupp consulted Curd on the "point spread" established by gamblers on Kentucky's basketball games.

Milwaukee Advance Sale Passes 20,000

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 20 (INS)—A sellout crowd of 30,000, a good start in fan support for the new Milwaukee Braves, was definitely assured today for the city's return to big time baseball.

Officials announced that advance ticket sales for the opening of the National League season April 14 have passed the 20,000 mark and more requests for seat reservations are pouring in by mail and telephone.

The advance sale includes 17,000 seats sold for opening game of the old Milwaukee Brewers of the American Association, now moving to Toledo to make way for the Braves in the first major league franchise shift since 1903. These tickets will be good for the Braves' debut in the beer city.

Indiana Voted Nation's Top College Team

Seton Hall Is 2nd, Kansas Finishes 3rd In Final Poll Of AP

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP) — The Hoosiers of Indiana University, victors in the finals of the NCAA basketball tournament at Kansas City, were voted the No. 1 college basketball team of the 1953 season today in the final weekly Associated Press poll.

Coach Branch McCracken's Bloomington team, champions of the Big Ten and a 69-68 winner over Kansas in the NCAA championship game, ran away with the 14th and last nationwide poll of the season.

Of 159 ballots from sports writers and sportscasters, Indiana received 128 first place votes and 1,476 points scored on a 10-9-8-7, etc. basis.

Seton Hall Is Second

Another tournament champion, Seton Hall, winner of the National Invitation in New York last Saturday, finished in second place. Seton Hall beat St. John's of Brooklyn in the NIT finals 58-46.

Coach Honey Russell's Pirates had 27 first place votes, and 1,357 points. Only one other team, LaSalle, which was rated No. 6, received a first place vote. LaSalle had four.

Indiana displaced Seton Hall, early leader in the weekly poll, in the March 2 balloting, and remained No. 1 in the 12th and 13th polls. Seton Hall, which had led for six straight weeks beginning Jan. 20, skidded from the top after late season defeats at the hands of Dayton and Louisville. Seton Hall had won 27 games without defeat until that final disastrous road trip. Indiana finished with a 23-3 record, Seton Hall 31-2.

Kansas Finishes Third

Kansas, Big Seven champions who missed the NCAA honors by a basket, wound up in third place with 1,212 points. Kansas was defending NCAA champion. The University of Washington, Pacific Coast champions and a semifinalist in the NCAA tourney, rated the No. 4 place with 1,041 points. No other team had 1,000 points.

This is the second time Indiana has been voted in the "top ten" since the AP basketball poll was inaugurated in 1949. The 1951 Hoosiers were rated No. 7. It is the second Mid-West team to gain the championship honor, Bradley having been voted No. 1 in 1950.

Kentucky was the No. 1 team last year, in 1949 and 1951.

Louisiana State, also an NCAA semi-finalist, finished No. 5 this year with 632 points, followed by LaSalle with 484, St. John's with 449, Oklahoma A&M with 316, Duquesne with 235, and Notre Dame with 196.

The top ten teams:

1. Indiana
2. Seton Hall
3. Kansas

5. Louisiana State
6. LaSalle
7. St. John's
8. Oklahoma A & M

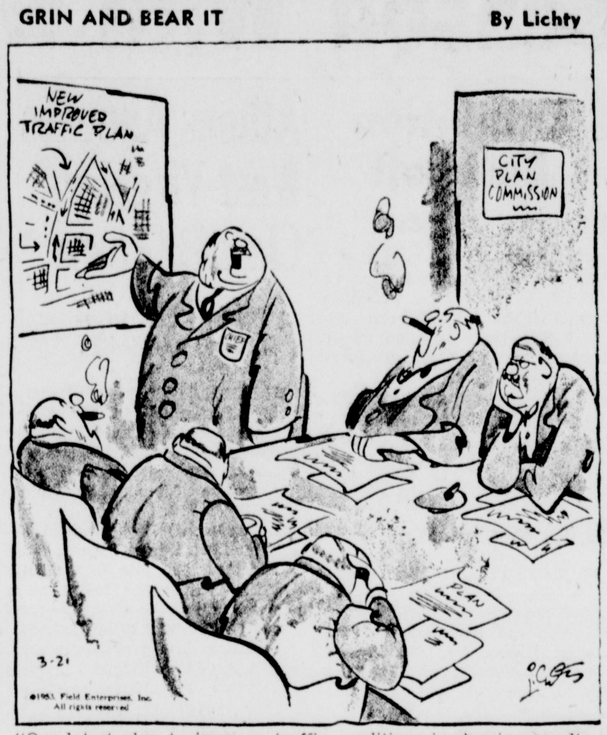
GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty



"Our latest plan to improve traffic conditions is showing results, gentlemen . . . in some places it's still a fright, but in other places it's only bad . . ."

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"You tickled!"

Ike Is Expected To Approve Parts Of Air Defense Plans

to have urged the immediate establishment of a Theater of the United States — the great step which has so long divided the armed services.

Arms of all the services are here involved. The Army has its anti-aircraft guns and its Nike guided missile, useful for the restricted but important task of point defense.

The Navy should provide radar picket ships, but is balky. The Air Force has the main air defense task, with its fighters, its warning nets, its projected Bomarc guided missiles, and other things that are coming along.

All these weapons and kinds of weapons must be made to work together, in harmony with other weapons and kinds of equipment designed by the scientists. The scientists understandably believe that this defensive unity of the feuding armed services cannot be achieved, without making this continent a war theater, and naming a Theater Commander of the United States. The proposed Manhattan District-type research and development organization can perhaps be placed under the name Theater Commander.

It will not be cheap to do these things, even on the most economical basis. It will cost great sums to get six or seven hours of warning instead of an hour-and-a-half; and to increase our pitiful defending forces until they can be powerfully disposed in depth. The mere construction of housing and other facilities for air defense personnel—some of them at northern bases only accessible by sea for one month in twelve—will be a huge item in itself. Yet the argument for all this expense is almost inescapably strong.

As has also been reported, the President Lincoln-Summer Study Group scientists have solemnly warned that this country will be nakedly exposed to air-Atomic destruction by the Kremlin within two short years.

Both the program of the scientists and the reasoning behind it have been running the gauntlet, just as an attacking bomber is supposed to do. In the first place, the Air Force is neurotically terrified of any form of military expenditure that can conceivably compete with the Strategic Air Command. These Air Force fears for S. A. C. were at once aroused when the Project Lincoln scientists briefed the highest Air Force officials and generals on their findings late last summer.

The Air Force then took the extraordinary step of requesting Project Lincoln not to report in writing; and the Air Force authorities thereafter pompously maintained that they had never received any final report from this project they themselves had sponsored.

Nonetheless, the Project Lincoln-Summer Study Group findings and program were taken to President Truman and the National Security Council. The ensuing debate, which rocked the higher ranks of the Truman administration, caused former Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett to appoint the first committee of review.

This committee was headed by Mervin J. Kelly of the Bell Laboratories and included other industrialists and scientists. It is understood that the Bell Committee has reported favorably on the air defense program already, although it has not yet vanished from the scene.

More recently, President Eisenhower gathered a second committee of review, known in the inner circle of the Administration as the "Seven Wise Men." The seven are Charles Thomas of the Monsanto Company; James P. Black of Pacific Gas and Electric; Eugene Holman of Standard Oil of New Jersey; the able publisher, John Cowles; the leading Houston, Texas lawyer, Dillon Anderson; the President of Cornell University, Deane W. Malott, and a labor leader, David B. Robertson, to give balance.

When they were called to Washington, the "seven wise men" were smoothly explained away by the White House as mere consultants on general defense problems. The air defense problem is, in fact, their specific preoccupation. One of those very close to the President has surmised that the President had a purpose in choosing a committee so top-heavy with big business men. He wanted the big business men to return to their own lairs and win over the rest of the business community to support of a much greater defense outlay.

The President fears the role of the former military man who imposes his own militaristic judgment. When the air defense problem and its gigantic dimensions were first revealed to them the members of the Eisenhower National Securjty Council apparently reacted with some violence. They are reliably stated to have been seized with an almost unanimous impulse to thrust this horrible skeleton back into its closet.

Those most anxious to avoid a prompt decision are known to have been the two Council members who probably have the greatest influence on the President, Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey and Budget Director Joseph Dodge. In these circumstances, the President over-ruled no one. He gave no direct order. He merely required the closed door to be opened, and the air defense skeleton to be examined all over again, at the next Security Council meeting, and the next and the next. That, of course, is one good way of gradually carrying conviction.

Add these facts up with the President's decision to take both Republican and Democratic Congressional leaders into his confidence nearly a month ago, on Feb. 19. The plain inference is that the President largely knows his own mind, but is seeking fairly solid assurance of strong majority support, for strong action on the air defense problem.

It may still be, of course, that the "seven wise men" will not understand the scientists, or will find some hole in their reasoning. Or it may be that the White House will again be terrified by its favorite bogies, the Congressional right wing isolationists. But whichever way the President's decision goes, it is likely to determine the whole course of his administration.

If the President will not jump this particular fence, the cry of alarm will be raised by the Democrats whom he has taken into his confidence, the scientists in their passionate concern, and all others who know the real facts. The President will thus be isolated with the isolationist wing of his party. As to what will then happen to all of us, it does not bear thinking about.

On the other hand, if the President behaves in character, taking the jump and doing his job, his leadership may be counted on to inspire all but his own party's extremists. And American politics and American policy will thereafter move into a new dimension.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

HOW BIG IS THE RISK?

WHETHER or not to make a sacrifice bid depends upon the relationship between two figures? First, how many points do you expect your side to lose if the opponents play the hand at their own contract? Second, how many do you expect to lose if you make the sacrifice bid and are doubled in it? If the second figure is larger than the first, you merely select the lesser evil by passing. But if it is smaller than the first, then you prefer the lesser loss to the larger by bidding for a fall. And the amount it pays to sacrifice against a slam is obviously more than what you can afford against a mere game.

South lost six tricks in that sacrifice contract, which put him down five and gave his opponents 900 points. So was the bid sound? And did it pay?

To both of those questions the answer is probably yes. If South had not made the bid, West would have bid the small slam at least in clubs or No Trumps, which would have produced a total score worth several hundred points more, especially since a grand slam could have been made because of the location of the defenders' honors.

If it was sound for South to hop in with that diamond bid at such a high level as six, why wouldn't it have been even better bridge to show the suit on his previous turns, with 1-Diamond over 1-Club or 4-Diamonds over the 3-No Trumps of East?

In South's version, an immediate overcall of 1-Diamond could have been damagingly misleading, when he held no real honor strength, if North happened to have a good hand. A bid of 4-Diamonds over 3-No Trumps would have risked too great a loss when only a game by the opposition seemed in view.

But when West had used the Blackwood 4-No Trumps, and East had shown two aces with his response, a slam was at stake, either grand or small. So then enough was at issue.

Your Weekend Question

Why is it often unwise to show your distribution too thoroughly to your partner, by bidding an additional suit or suits, after you have ascertained that there is a satisfactory fit in a particular major suit?

Indiana Voted Nation's Top College Team

Seton Hall Is 2nd, Kansas Finishes 3rd In Final Poll Of AP

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP) — The Hoosiers of Indiana University, victors in the finals of the NCAA basketball tournament at Kansas City, were voted the No. 1 college basketball team of the 1953 season today in the final weekly Associated Press poll.

Coach Branch McCracken's Bloomington team, champions of the Big Ten and a 69-68 winner over Kansas in the NCAA championship game, ran away with the 14th and last nationwide poll of the season.

Of 159 ballots from sports writers and sportscasters, Indiana received 128 first place votes and 1,476 points scored on a 10-9-8-7, etc. basis.

Seton Hall Is Second

Another tournament champion, Seton Hall, winner of the National Invitation in New York last Saturday, finished in second place. Seton Hall beat St. John's of Brooklyn in the NIT finals 58-46.

Coach Honey Russell's Pirates had 27 first place votes, and 1,357 points. Only one other team, LaSalle, which was rated No. 6, received a first place vote. LaSalle had four.

Indiana displaced Seton Hall, early leader in the weekly poll, in the March 2 balloting, and remained No. 1 in the 12th and 13th polls. Seton Hall, which had led for six straight weeks beginning Jan. 20, skidded from the top after late season defeats at the hands of Dayton and Louisville. Seton Hall had won 27 games without defeat until that final disastrous road trip. Indiana finished with a 23-3 record, Seton Hall 31-2.

Kansas Finishes Third

Kansas, Big Seven champions who missed the NCAA honors by a basket, wound up in third place with 1,212 points. Kansas was defending NCAA champion. The University of Washington, Pacific Coast champions and a semifinalist in the NCAA tourney, rated the No. 4 place with 1,041 points. No other team had 1,000 points.

This is the second time Indiana has been voted in the "top ten" since the AP basketball poll was inaugurated in 1949. The 1951 Hoosiers were rated No. 7. It is the second Mid-West team to gain the championship honor, Bradley having been voted No. 1 in 1950.

Kentucky was the No. 1 team last year, in 1949 and 1951.

Louisiana State, also an NCAA semi-finalist, finished No. 5 this year with 632 points, followed by LaSalle with 484, St. John's with 449, Oklahoma A&M with 316, Duquesne with 235, and Notre Dame with 196.

The top ten teams:

1. Indiana
2. Seton Hall
3. Kansas
4. Washington
5. Louisiana State
6. LaSalle
7. St. John's
8. Oklahoma A & M

Ike Is Expected To Approve Parts Of Air Defense Plans

to have urged the immediate establishment of a Theater of the United States — the great step which has so long divided the armed services.

Arms of all the services are here involved. The Army has its anti-aircraft guns and its Nike guided missile, useful for the restricted but important task of point defense.

The Navy should provide radar picket ships, but is balky. The Air Force has the main air defense task, with its fighters, its warning nets, its projected Bomarc guided missiles, and other things that are coming along.

All these weapons and kinds of weapons must be made to work together, in harmony with other weapons and kinds of equipment designed by the scientists. The scientists understandably believe that this defensive unity of the feuding armed services cannot be achieved, without making this continent a war theater, and naming a Theater Commander of the United States. The proposed Manhattan District-type research and development organization can perhaps be placed under the name Theater Commander.

It will not be cheap to do these things, even on the most economical basis. It will cost great sums to get six or seven hours of warning instead of an hour-and-a-half; and to increase our pitiful defending forces until they can be powerfully disposed in depth. The mere construction of housing and other facilities for air defense personnel—some of them at northern bases only accessible by sea for one month in twelve—will be a huge item in itself. Yet the argument for all this expense is almost inescapably strong.

As has also been reported, the President Lincoln-Summer Study Group scientists have solemnly warned that this country will be nakedly exposed to air-Atomic destruction by the Kremlin within two short years.

Both the program of the scientists and t he reasoning behind it have been running the gauntlet, just as an attacking bomber is supposed to do. In the first place, the Air Force is neurotically terrified of any form of military expenditure that can conceivably compete with the Strategic Air Command. These Air Force fears for S. A. C. were at once aroused when the Project Lincoln scientists briefed the highest Air Force officials and generals on their findings late last summer.

The Air Force then took the extraordinary step of requesting Project Lincoln not to report in writing; and the Air Force authorities thereafter pompously maintained that they had never received any final report from this project they themselves had sponsored.

Nonetheless, the Project Lincoln-Summer Study Group findings and program were taken to President Truman and the National Security Council. The ensuing debate, which rocked the higher ranks of the Truman administration, caused former Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett to appoint the first committee of review.

This committee was headed by Mervin J. Kelly of the Bell Laboratories and included other industrialists and scientists. It is understood that the Bell Committee has reported favorably on the air defense program already, although it has not yet vanished from the scene.

More recently, President Eisenhower gathered a second committee of review, known in the inner circle of the Administration as the "Seven Wise Men." The seven are Charles Thomas of the Monsanto Company; James P. Black of Pacific Gas and Electric; Eugene Holman of Standard Oil of New Jersey; the able publisher, John Cowles; the leading Houston, Texas lawyer, Dillon Anderson; the President of Cornell University, Deane W. Malott, and a labor leader, David B. Robertson, to give balance.

When they were called to Washington, the "seven wise men" were smoothly explained away by the White House as mere consultants on general defense problems. The air defense problem is, in fact, their specific preoccupation. One of those very close to the President has surmised that the President had a purpose in choosing a committee so top-heavy with big business men. He wanted the big business men to return to their own lairs and win over the rest of the business community to support of a much greater defense outlay.

The President fears the role of the former military man who imposes his own militaristic judgment. When the air defense problem and its gigantic dimensions were first revealed to them the members of the Eisenhower National Securjty Council apparently reacted with some violence. They are reliably stated to have been seized with an almost unanimous impulse to thrust this horrible skeleton back into its closet.

Those most anxious to avoid a prompt decision are known to have been the two Council members who probably have the greatest influence on the President, Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey and Budget Director Joseph Dodge. In these circumstances, the President over-ruled no one. He gave no direct order. He merely required the closed door to be opened, and the air defense skeleton to be examined all over again, at the next Security Council meeting, and the next and the next. That, of course, is one good way of gradually carrying conviction.

Add these facts up with the President's decision to take both Republican and Democratic Congressional leaders into his confidence nearly a month ago, on Feb. 19. The plain inference is that the President largely knows his own mind, but is seeking fairly solid assurance of strong majority support, for strong action on the air defense problem.

It may still be, of course, that the "seven wise men" will not understand the scientists, or will find some hole in their reasoning. Or it may be that the White House will again be terrified by its favorite bogies, the Congressional right wing isolationists. But whichever way the President's decision goes, it is likely to determine the whole course of his administration.

If the President will not jump this particular fence, the cry of alarm will be raised by the Democrats whom he has taken into his confidence, the scientists in their passionate concern, and all others who know the real facts. The President will thus be isolated with the isolationist wing of his party. As to what will then happen to all of us, it does not bear thinking about.

On the other hand, if the President behaves in character, taking the jump and doing his job, his leadership may be counted on to inspire all but his own party's extremists. And American politics and American policy will thereafter move into a new dimension.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Daily Bridge Lesson

HOW BIG IS THE RISK?

WHETHER or not to make a sacrifice bid depends upon the relationship between two figures? First, how many points do you expect your side to lose if the opponents play the hand at their own contract? Second, how many do you expect to lose if you make the sacrifice bid and are doubled in it? If the second figure is larger than the first, you merely select the lesser evil by passing. But if it is smaller than the first, then you prefer the lesser loss to the larger by bidding for a fail. And the amount it pays to sacrifice against a slam is obviously more than what you can afford against a mere game.

	♠ J 7 6 3 2 ♥ J 5 ♦ K Q 6 ♣ K 4 3
♠ K Q 8 ♥ A 9 7 ♦ A 10 ♣ Q 8 7 6 5	N W E S	♠ A 10 5 4 ♥ K Q 10 2 ♦ 3 ♣ A J 10 9
	♠ 9 ♥ 8 6 4 3 ♦ J 9 8 7 5 4 2 ♣ 2

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♣	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ♥	6 ♦	Dbl.

South lost six tricks in that sacrifice contract, which put him down five and gave his opponents 900 points. So was the bid sound? And did it pay?

To both of those questions the answer is probably yes. If South had not made the bid, West would have bid the small slam at least in clubs or No Trumps, which would have produced a total score worth several hundred points more, especially since a grand slam could have been made because of the location of the defenders' honors.

If it was sound for South to hop in with that diamond bid at such a high level as six, why wouldn't it have been even better bridge to show the suit on his previous turns, with 1-Diamond over 1-Club or 4-Diamonds over the 3-No Trumps of East?

In South's version, an immediate overcall of 1-Diamond could have been damagingly misleading, when he held no real honor strength, if North happened to have a good hand. A bid of 4-Diamonds over 3-No Trumps would have risked too great a loss when only a game by the opposition seemed in view.

But when West had used the Blackwood 4-No Trumps, and East had shown two aces with his response, a slam was at stake, either grand or small. So then enough was at issue.

Why is it often unwise to show your distribution too thoroughly to your partner, by bidding an additional suit or suits, after you have ascertained that there is a satisfactory fit in a particular major suit?

SWEET TOOTH SNAGS BOY—It took 20 minutes to free Jimmy Wallace Hawley III, Charleston, W. Va., after his hand got caught in a candy machine from which he was trying to wriggle a free bar. Tom North, owner of the establishment which displays the machine, manifests grave concern as he works to extricate Jimmy. Leaning over them is Johnny Walker, representative of the vending machine company, who was hurriedly summoned to the scene. Commented Walker, "I've never had anybody get stuck before in 20 years." Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 20 (INS) Glenn Ford, who picked up quite a following in South America after he made "Gilda" with Rita Hayworth, will pack his bags soon to make a picture in Sao Paulo, Brazil. This time he is taking Eleanor and their son, Peter.

The movie he'll make in Brazil is "The Americano," and he'll do it for Independent Producer Robert Stillman. Director Jacques Tourneur plans to film the Brazilian jungle through which Glenn travels, in three-D and in color.

Negotiations are on between Richard English and Steve Broidy, head of Allied Artists, for Dick to head a unit as a writer-producer.

"If the deal goes through," Broidy told me, "Dick will put many of his own stories on the screen and be in full charge. We haven't yet signed the contract, but it looks very promising."

I'm wondering if Dick's own story, "Martinque," will be one of the ones he will film? It's certainly dramtic and would make a good picture.

Dick is presently in Coronado where he's putting the finishing touches on the Johnnie Ray script for 20th.

A popular award Thursday night was the one given Joseph M. Schenck, beloved pioneer of our motion picture business.

Last week, Joe, as he's known to everyone, resigned as head of 20th Century-Fox after 40 years in the picture business, because he has to spend more time with the theatres. The special award was given to him as "an outstanding pioneer" and came as a great surprise to Mr. Schenck, who is in New York.

Often we feel people who really deserve awards are not given them, so in this case it is very gratifying to those who know the real Joseph M. Schenck that he was honored.

A happy Shelley Winters was told by her boss, William Goetz, at the U-I party given by Janet Leigh and Tony Curtis, that she starts a picture April 1. Shelley needs to take off only a few more pounds before she is down to the right size. She was showing everyone the picture of her baby.

The party given on the set of "Walking My Baby Back Home," brought out all the young players. Tony Curtis, of course, was with Janet; Rock Hudson and his attractive leading lady, Marcia Henderson, danced together again and again; pretty Lori Nelson—most of them were there with the exception of Piper Laurie, who is ill. Farley Granger, Chill Wills and Bobby Hacket were among those present.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Bette Davis saw the academy awards ceremonies from a TV set installed in her hospital room.

At the Mocambo, Milton Berle, with Ruth Cosgrove, said nothing about marriage, only that he'll be in town for another week.

Great excitement at the Sportsman's Lodge last night when Joe Pevney and Mitzi Green, who had been dining with Ida Lupino and Howard Duff, discovered their new car had been stolen. The police were called.

It's now definite that Rocky and Gary Cooper's daughter, Maria, will go to the coronation with Gary. So far, much as all the Coopers' friends wish it were true, there is no reconciliation.

Joan O'Brien, who was Mario Lanza's press agent, has written a comedy for George Abbott called "The Short End." She denied it's about her ex-client.

Jimmy Wakely, who plays the guitar as few people in the world have ever played it, gave us his new sing, "A Night I Shall Never Forget," at Maggie Ettinger's small dinner party honoring Woody Wirsig.

Woody, who is here in his official capacity of editor of the Women's Home Companion, had a long talk with Jimmy McHugh about publishing the song composer's life story, which later will be published in book form.

Betty Hutton and Charles O'Curran celebrated their first wedding anniversary, also at Maggie's house.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Here are seven tips that will help tall girls extract the most from their natural advantage!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The attentuated line of a long, slim figure is a perfect foil for wearing smart clothes smartly. That's why top designers choose models of 5'9" and over to show their collections. Yet there is many a tall-tall girl and woman who has not discovered the beauty edge which she has over her short sisters. Generally it is because she has not discovered what to look for when she is selecting her wardrobe. To extract every inch of model loveliness inherent in a dizzy height, follow these tips:

Tall Tips

T hink tall! If you think in terms of the petite, you will end up looking as if your clothes had shrunk in the cleaning.

A ccessorize with big flair. Large important bags and jewelery are yours alone to wear.

Statuesque and Striking

I nsist on flat crowns and sweeping brims. The flat little chapeaux inspired by the coming Coronation are exactly right for your queenly head.

P ull up tall. You do not look shorter by slouching, only crumpled and creased.

S ee yourself as the statuesque and striking beauty that you are in the eyes of equally tall and handsome swains.

Optical Illusions

From the short-shorts to the tall-talls, every woman should have a copy of our leaflet, "What's Your Line?" It tells you how to put optical illusion to work for your best appearance. It tells you what lines to avoid if you wish to look no shorter than you are—or no taller than you must. And if it's taller or shorter that you wish to look, it gives you the practical means of accomplishing these goals too. It tells you what lines slim various areas of the figure and which lines widen them. If you want your clothes to enhance your figure lines, send your request with a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper.

Monday: A skin problem.

"WHAT'S YOUR LINE?" — Horizontal, vertical and diagonal lines make a world of difference in what clothing will do for (or to) your figure! This "P.S." gives you complete information on handling lines to your own best advantage. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope for a copy of WHAT'S YOUR LINE?

Jackson Slayer Execution Set

The date for the execution of the slayer of a local man's brother has been set in West Virginia.

The first electrocution of a person in that state in two years is scheduled at the state penitentiary at Moundsville on April 17.

Warden Orel J. Sken said the doomed man, Oshel Gardner Jr. 22, of Gallipolis Ferry in Mason County, will die for the murder of Roy Jackson, 45, brother of Lonnie Jackson, 225 Bedford Street

Testimony at the trial was that Gardner forced Jackson to drive him to an isolated section of the county, then killed him with a shotgun. Jackson operated a taxicab at Point Pleasant.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 20 (INS) Glenn Ford, who picked up quite a following in South America after he made "Gilda" with Rita Hayworth, will pack his bags soon to make a picture in Sao Paulo, Brazil. This time he is taking Eleanor and their son, Peter.

The movie he'll make in Brazil is "The Americano," and he'll do it for Independent Producer Robert Stillman. Director Jacques Tourneur plans to film the Brazilian jungle through which Glenn travels, in three-D and in color.

Negotiations are on between Richard English and Steve Broidy, head of Allied Artists, for Dick to head a unit as a writer-producer.

"If the deal goes through," Broidy told me, "Dick will put many of his own stories on the screen and be in full charge. We haven't yet signed the contract, but it looks very promising."

I'm wondering if Dick's own story, "Martinque," will be one of the ones he will film? It's certainly dramtic and would make a good picture.

Dick is presently in Coronado where he's putting the finishing touches on the Johnnie Ray script for 20th.

A popular award Thursday night was the one given Joseph M. Schenck, beloved pioneer of our motion picture business.

Last week, Joe, as he's known to everyone, resigned as head of 20th Century-Fox after 40 years in the picture business, because he has to spend more time with the theatres. The special award was given to him as "an outstanding pioneer" and came as a great surprise to Mr. Schenck, who is in New York.

Often we feel people who really deserve awards are not given them, so in this case it is very gratifying to those who know the real Joseph M. Schenck that he was honored.

A happy Shelley Winters was told by her boss, William Goetz, at the U-I party given by Janet Leigh and Tony Curtis, that she starts a picture April 1. Shelley needs to take off only a few more pounds before she is down to the right size. She was showing everyone the picture of her baby.

The party given on the set of "Walking My Baby Back Home," brought out all the young players. Tony Curtis, of course, was with Janet; Rock Hudson and his attractive leading lady, Marcia Henderson, danced together again and again; pretty Lori Nelson—most of them were there with the exception of Piper Laurie, who is ill. Farley Granger, Chill Wills and Bobby Hacket were among those present.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Bette Davis saw the academy awards ceremonies from a TV set installed in her hospital room.

At the Mocambo, Milton Berle, with Ruth Cosgrove, said nothing about marriage, only that he'll be in town for another week.

Great excitement at the Sportsman's Lodge last night when Joe Pevney and Mitzi Green, who had been dining with Ida Lupino and Howard Duff, discovered their new car had been stolen. The police were called.

It's now definite that Rocky and Gary Cooper's daughter, Maria, will go to the coronation with Gary. So far, much as all the Coopers' friends wish it were true, there is no reconciliation.

Joan O'Brien, who was Mario Lanza's press agent, has written a comedy for George Abbott called "The Short End." She denied it's about her ex-client.

Jimmy Wakely, who plays the guitar as few people in the world have ever played it, gave us his new sing, "A Night I Shall Never Forget," at Maggie Ettinger's small dinner party honoring Woody Wirsig.

Woody, who is here in his official capacity of editor of the Women's Home Companion, had a long talk with Jimmy McHugh about publishing the song composer's life story, which later will be published in book form.

Betty Hutton and Charles O'Curran celebrated their first wedding anniversary, also at Maggie's house.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Here are seven tips that will help tall girls extract the most from their natural advantage!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The attentuated line of a long, slim figure is a perfect foil for wearing smart clothes smartly. That's why top designers choose models of 5'9" and over to show their collections. Yet there is many a tall-tall girl and woman who has not discovered the beauty edge which she has over her short sisters. Generally it is because she has not discovered what to look for when she is selecting her wardrobe. To extract every inch of model loveliness inherent in a dizzy height, follow these tips:

Tall Tips

T hink tall! If you think in terms of the petite, you will end up looking as if your clothes had shrunk in the cleaning.

A ccessorize with big flair. Large important bags and jewelery are yours alone to wear.

Statuesque and Striking

T ake to color. Dark shades, in slimming the figure, lengthen it. And lively hue that Dame Fashion offers, as long as it flatters your complexion, increases your appearance appeal.

I nsist on flat crowns and sweeping brims. The flat little chapeaux inspired by the coming Coronation are exactly right for your queenly head.

P ull up tall. You do not look shorter by slouching, only crumpled and creased.

S ee yourself as the statuesque and striking beauty that you are in the eyes of equally tall and handsome swains.

Optical Illusions

From the short-shorts to the tall-talls, every woman should have a copy of our leaflet, "What's Your Line?" It tells you how to put optical illusion to work for your best appearance. It tells you what lines to avoid if you wish to look no shorter than you are—or no taller than you must. And if it's taller or shorter that you wish to look, it gives you the practical means of accomplishing these goals too. It tells you what lines slim various areas of the figure and which lines widen them. If you want your clothes to enhance your figure lines, send your request with a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper.

Monday: A skin problem.

"WHAT'S YOUR LINE?" — Horizontal, vertical and diagonal lines make a world of difference in what clothing will do for (or to) your figure! This "P.S." gives you complete information on handling lines to your own best advantage. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope for a copy of WHAT'S YOUR LINE?

Jackson Slayer Execution Set

The date for the execution of the slayer of a local man's brother has been set in West Virginia.

The first electrocution of a person in that state in two years is scheduled at the state penitentiary at Moundsville on April 17.

Warden Orel J. Sken said the doomed man, Oshel Gardner Jr. 22, of Gallipolis Ferry in Mason County, will die for the murder of Roy Jackson, 45, brother of Lonnie Jackson, 225 Bedford Street

Testimony at the trial was that Gardner forced Jackson to drive him to an isolated section of the county, then killed him with a shotgun. Jackson operated a taxicab at Point Pleasant.

Radio And Television
by John Crosby

Fifth Birthday For Johns Hopkins

In its five years on the air, Johns Hopkins Science Review, the oldest educational program on the air (and virtually the only network show), has attracted a polyglot audience of surprising variety. "During the past three weeks," said Lynn Poole, its producer, "those who have personally mentioned the program to me include the following: a banker, taxi-driver, at least 50 parents, an airline hostess, a waitress, many children, an elevator operator, the building superintendent, and a number of school teachers." Truly science in these grim days is everyone's business.

John Crosby

The variousness of the audience is more than matched by the variousness of the things it has seen—some of them fascinating, some pretty dull, some pretty funny. I think the most absorbing thing I ever saw on the program was motion picture film shot 76 miles above the earth, showing the curvature of the earth, the great cloud masses surrounding it, and the dense chilly blackness of outer space. A frighteningly lonely experience, it was.

The duller ones, to my mind, have been those in which science turned matter-of-fact and practical. How to harden the surface of a table, for example. That is for the women's programs. I prefer science in outer space or grappling with atoms. The funniest one was a bird expert who reminded me strongly of that old Robert Benchley short about the sex life of the amoeba:

"I think——uh——there are 15 million nesting birds in this country," said this man whose name eludes me. "I——uh——don't think anyone can challenge that——uh——estimate. We can thank the Audubon Society for——uh——counting..... Birds don't just sing for the——uh——functional thing. It's——uh——well, the male summoning the female. Some times, it——uh——means 'Stay out of my territory.'" He demonstrated some bird calls. "The rose-breasted grosbeak sounds like a robin who has——heh heh——taken voice lessons." He ended the lecture with the words: "Good birding!" which, I guess, is the rallying cry of all good bird-watchers. Good birding to you, sir!

The show runs the science gamut from A to Z (astrophysics to zoology, in case you didn't know science ran such a gamut.) There is a studious attempt to remain on top of the news. Two years ago when volcanoes were erupting all over the place, there was a demonstration of how and why volcanoes erupt. Krilium, the new soil conditioner, was on the program almost the moment it got out of the laboratory. Sometimes, the professors modestly claim a real news beat. They claim the first official discussion and scientific demonstration of biological warfare, much of which had been withheld from the public up until then. In fact, about the only scientific marvel left strictly alone by Johns Hopkins is Christine Jorgenson.

The scientists refuse to be intimidated by the normal network taboos. A series on cancer employed such words as cervix, uterus, vagina, breast, testes, and ovaries, and also used drawings of many of those regions. There wasn't a single squawk from the public. In fact, the program was complimented for not pussyfooting around, indicating a degree of maturity not often suspected in network audiences.

After the cancer series, one man wrote that he and his wife had watched a program on breast cancer. "Upon the conclusion of the program, my wife checked herself for 'lumps' and found a growth in her left breast. Surgery, which was performed within a few days, revealed the growth to be malignant. The growth was still in an early stage and the malignancy had not spread too far. There is no reason why my wife should not completely recover. I am sure that had we not watched your program, the malignancy would have gone unnoticed until it reached a stage where surgery would have been of no avail."

After that letter the staff felt its program was indeed educational.

Fifth Birthday For Johns Hopkins

In its five years on the air, Johns Hopkins Science Review, the oldest educational program on the air (and virtually the only network show), has attracted a polyglot audience of surprising variety. "During the past three weeks," said Lynn Poole, its producer, "those who have personally mentioned the program to me include the following: a banker, taxi-driver, at least 50 parents, an airline hostess, a waitress, many children, an elevator operator, the building superintendent, and a number of school teachers." Truly science in these grim days is everyone's business.

John Crosby

The variousness of the audience is more than matched by the variousness of the things it has seen—some of them fascinating, some pretty dull, some pretty funny. I think the most absorbing thing I ever saw on the program was motion picture film shot 76 miles above the earth, showing the curvature of the earth, the great cloud masses surrounding it, and the dense chilly blackness of outer space. A frighteningly lonely experience, it was.

The duller ones, to my mind, have been those in which science turned matter-of-fact and practical. How to harden the surface of a table, for example. That is for the women's programs. I prefer science in outer space or grappling with atoms. The funniest one was a bird expert who reminded me strongly of that old Robert Benchley short about the sex life of the amoeba:

"I think——uh——there are 15 million nesting birds in this country," said this man whose name eludes me. "I——uh——don't think anyone can challenge that——uh——estimate. We can thank the Audubon Society for——uh——counting. . . . . Birds don't just sing for the——uh——functional thing. It's——uh——well, the male summoning the female. Some times, it——uh——means 'Stay out of my territory.'" He demonstrated some bird calls. "The rose-breasted grosbeak sounds like a robin who has——heh heh——taken voice lessons." He ended the lecture with the words: "Good birding!" which, I guess, is the rallying cry of all good bird-watchers. Good birding to you, sir!

The show runs the science gamut from A to Z (astrophysics to zoology, in case you didn't know science ran such a gamut.) There is a studious attempt to remain on top of the news. Two years ago when volcanoes were erupting all over the place, there was a demonstration of how and why volcanoes erupt. Krilium, the new soil conditioner, was on the program almost the moment it got out of the laboratory. Sometimes, the professors modestly claim a real news beat. They claim the first official discussion and scientific demonstration of biological warfare, much of which had been withheld from the public up until then. In fact, about the only scientific marvel left strictly alone by Johns Hopkins is Christine Jorgenson.

The scientists refuse to be intimidated by the normal network taboos. A series on cancer employed such words as cervix, uterus, vagina, breast, testes, and ovaries, and also used drawings of many of those regions. There wasn't a single squawk from the public. In fact, the program was complimented for not pussyfooting around, indicating a degree of maturity not often suspected in network audiences.

After the cancer series, one man wrote that he and his wife had watched a program on breast cancer. "Upon the conclusion of the program, my wife checked herself for 'lumps' and found a growth in her left breast. Surgery, which was performed within a few days, revealed the growth to be malignant. The growth was still in an early stage and the malignancy had not spread too far. There is no reason why my wife should not completely recover. I am sure that had we not watched your program, the malignancy would have gone unnoticed until it reached a stage where surgery would have been of no avail."

After that letter the staff felt its program was indeed educational.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Don Laffey who departed this life March 21, 1943.
I have the faith that some sweet day
I will meet you by and by.
There's an open gate at the end of the road,
Though each must go alone.
Sadly missed by his Grandmother Kalbaugh.

Card of Thanks

I wish to take this means of expressing my sincere thanks to all my relatives and neighbors for their kindness extended to me during my bereavement, the death of my son, Richard Lee. I wish also to thank those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their cars for the funeral.
Mother, Mrs. Mildred Valentine and Brother, Mike.

OVER 50 Years ago a man tripped over a lump of gold up in Klondike, Alaska and started a big gold rush. The man who centuries ago placed the first Want Ad started more money changing hands than the sourdoughs or '49ers ever thought about. Everybody reads and uses Want Ads. In Memoriam

In loving memory of Don Laffey who departed this life March 21, 1943.
I have the faith that some sweet day
I will meet you by and by.
There's an open gate at the end of the road,
Though each must go alone.
Sadly missed by his Grandmother Kalbaugh.

Card of Thanks

I wish to take this means of expressing my sincere thanks to all my relatives and neighbors for their kindness extended to me during my bereavement, the death of my son, Richard Lee. I wish also to thank those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their cars for the funeral.
Mother, Mrs. Mildred Valentine and Brother, Mike.

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—After holding steady throughout almost the entire session today, the stock market tipped slightly lower in the final 30 minutes of trading.

Railroads, steels and motors all were down while most aircrafts and oils were higher.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down 20 cents at $115.30, a net gain of 30 cents on the week. Volume came to only $730,000, lowest in a couple of weeks.

Montgomery Ward was down ⅞ at 63⅛. Sewell Avery, the 79-year-old chairman of the board, has denied rumors that he was expected to retire at an early date. Those rumors, he said, were "just noise." The stock gained 4 points the first three days this week.

Missouri Pacific preferred was active and up 1⅝ at 54⅝ while Alleghany Corp., which owns a heavy block of Missouri Pacific common, gained ⅜ at 5 in active trading.

Parkway Measure Will Go Before House On Monday

Whitworth Foresees Committee Backing

The C&O Canal Parkway measure, strengthened by an overwhelming mandate from the Senate Thursday, will reach the House of Delegates Monday afternoon.

The bill sponsored by Senate Minority Leader Robert B. Kimble authorizes the State Roads Commission to purchase 4,100 acres of private land bordering the 57-mile parkway route between Hancock and Cumberland.

The plan, solidly backed by Western Maryland, will be referred to the House Ways and Means Committee, of which Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., Westernport, is a member.

Delegate Whitworth said last night he will make every effort to get the bill out of the committee with a favorable report.

Much Work Lies Ahead

He reported last night there are indications it will take a great deal of work on the part of Western Maryland to secure action on the Parkway plan.

Sectional differences, which delayed passage of the bill in the Senate, are expected to bring about a spirited fight among the delegates.

As handed to the House, the bill includes two amendments, neither of which is expected to cause serious difficulties.

They limit expenditures for the land acquisition to $350,000 and require Congress to grant easements to the route before construction can begin.

Could Be Started In Year

Delegates are aware that the construction of the parkway has become more vital than ever to the future of Western Maryland as legislators begin to balk at the 12-year construction plan of the State Roads Commission.

One of the compromises being considered is to break up the long-range program into sections—with Western Maryland's share in doubt at present.

The Parkway, however, could be started within a year if it is approved by the General Assembly.

Nazarene Church Shows Gains In Annual Report

Substantial gains in nearly every phase of international work by the Church of the Nazarene were recorded in the annual report released by Dr. S. T. Ludwig, general secretary of the denomination.

Nearly $30,000,000 was donated to the church by the membership of the 3,888 established churches in the United States, Canada and the British Isles. Of these 151 churches were organized in the past year.

Membership also climbed since 1951 the report discloses, with a rise to 250,000, a gain of 3.3 per cent.

The Sunday School organizations showed even larger gains, reporting 521,000 enrolled for an increase of 4.3 per cent over the previous year and more than twice as many as listed for church membership.

The church now has 262 missionaries and 950 native workers in 25 foreign countries. Some 52 of these missionaries were commissioned in the past year.

Schute Awarded City Annex Work

Repairs to the top of City Hall Annex will get under way Monday morning.

The contract for the work was awarded yesterday to Alex J. Schute, local roofing contractor, who submitted a low bid of $950. Other bids were $1,600, $2,115 and $3,475.

Bids on the work were asked Monday morning after an inspection showed the ornamental balustrades atop the building were in a dangerous condition and were a threat to pedestrians.

The work includes the removal of the stone balustrades and base from the top of the building, removal of all stone and intermediate parts of the balustrade, resetting the baluster rail, installing copper flashing to protect the top of the stones and replacing mortar in joints.

Child Hit By Car, Is Hospitalized

A seven-year-old Mapleside child was admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon with injuries sustained when she was struck by a car on Hill Top Drive.

Linda Barnhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Barnhart, Jane Frazier Village, sustained a laceration of the head, but was not believed to have been seriously hurt.

The driver of the car, W. Perry Shaffer, 430 Kean Terrace, said the child darted in front of his car near the intersection of Hill Top Drive and Prince George Street at about 4 p. m. Shaffer said he swerved to the other side of the street, but was unable to avoid striking the girl. He drove her to the hospital, where she was admitted for X-rays and observation.

No charges were filed.

Grammar School Ballerinas

These young ballerinas will appear in the annual Spring Festival at East Side School next week. The photo was snapped during a rehearsal for one of the numbers in the production. The festival will be staged at 7:30 p. m. Thursday and Friday, March 26, and 27, in the school auditorium. In the photo (left to right) are Carol Hendrickson, Suzanne Weatherholt, Shelia Almond, Leslie Malcolm, Barbara Clopper, Sharon Kaye Samson, Barbara Parsons, Paulette Swan and "Skippy" Davis.

A national key military figure, whose name will be announced later, will be principal speaker at the observance ceremonies. High school bands will provide music.

Conlon said Mayor Roy W. Eves, who heads the Armed Forces Day committee, plans to send invitations to mayors and councilmen and other officials of surrounding communities.

Following the stadium events, local veterans organizations and other clubs will hold open houses.

Committee Report Ready On Romney Deaf, Blind School

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 20 (AP)—Findings of a three-man committee's investigation into the State Schools for the Deaf and Blind at Romney will be laid before the State Board of Education next week.

A two-day meeting of the board opens Wednesday. A report on the study of the administration and operation of the Romney school will be received and discussed Thursday afternoon.

Three educators were hired by the board to make the study after complaints about some phases of the school's operation were received last year

F. E. Lord, director of special education at Michigan State College, heads the group which also includes Hugo Schunhogg, principal of Kendall School, a deaf and blind institution which is part of Gallaudet College in Washington, and Geraldine School, elementary supervisor of the Michigan School for the Blind in Lansing, Mich.

Dairy Price Support In Md. To Steady Transition Period

Continuation of dairy price supports at 90 per cent of parity is to "give the industry time to demonstrate to what degree it can solve its own problems," Sacretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson has said.

The decision followed the recommendation of the Dairy Advisory Group, Congressional and farm leaders and others, according to George J. Martin, chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing State Committee.

"Although dairy products from Northeastern United States have been brought under the price support program, Maryland has never had the support program operating within the state," Martin said.

Such price support operations as are needed to make the program effective will be carried out through Government offers to buy butter, cheese, and non-fat dry milk solids. Purchases of butter will be made on a "basing point" method, instead of the formerly used uniform price throughout the country. A drop in the parity formula will reduce the butter price support about two cents per pound.

A "work conference" including farmers and leaders of their organizations, processors, distributors, retailers, and consumers is being called together and each segment of the dairy industry will be asked to assume definite responsibility for a portion of the solution of the diary problems. Agricultural agencies will assist.

Suggestions are that dairy farmers can shift more rapidly to fluid milk sales and away from butterfat; milk companies can move more milk from butter-producing areas into regions needing fluid milk; and retail dairies, stores and consumers can more actively promote the sale of milk and milk products.

Reception Set By Methodists

A reception of new members into Emmanuel Methodist Church will be held on Palm Sunday, according to an announcement last night by Rev. Kenneth W. Grove, pastor

Those persons, Rev. Grove added, who plan becoming members will meet at the church on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. for instruction and fellowship with the officers of the church and Sunday School.

On Palm Sunday, besides the reception of new members, the sacrament of baptism will be administered to those with infants to be baptized.

The Cumberland Sub - District Methodist Youth Fellowship Rally for this month will be held at 7.30 p. m., March 26, in the First Methodist Church at Frostburg and will be in the form of a Communion service.

All local youth groups of the Methodist Churches, according to Rev. Grove, are invited to attend. Last year 260 youths met at the rally held in the Barton Methodist Church.

State Recreation Conference Set

The second annual governor's conference on recreation will be held at Towson State Teacher's College, Saturday, March 28, when Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, will address recreation leaders from all parts of the state.

"Recreation at the Grass Roots," will be the theme of this second annual affair which was initiated last year by McKeldin.

Dr. Ellen Harvey of the University of Maryland, general chairman of the conference, will preside over the meetings which will begin at 9 a. m. Group meetings devoted to specific recreation problems will be conducted by leaders experienced in scouting, church recreation, camping, community recreation, public relations, facilities, workshops, youth centers, drama craft and nature studies.

At the conclusion of group meetings John Faust and Charles Reed, consultants from the National Recreation Association, will conduct an hour-long information forum in the auditorium at the school.

Last year's conference, which was held at the State House in Annapolis, was attended by some 200 delegates.

Rec Night Set For March 28 By 4-H Clubs

The annual recreation night for members and friends of Allegany County 4-H Clubs will be held next Saturday from 7:30 p. m. to 10 p. m. in Fort Hill High School gymnasium.

A program of games, according to Joseph M. Steger, assistant county agent, is being arranged by Eugene Hopkins and a requisite for participation is the wearing of gym shoes or a pair of socks.

Prizes will be awarded and refreshments will be served, Steger added.

On Wednesday, April 1, at 8 p. m. a program sponsored by the Junior Extension 4-H Club, will be held at Flintstone High School featuring Stewart Young, 1952 International Farm Exchange student to France.

Young will talk and show pictures of his recent trip and experiences in France. During his stay in that country, he lived and worked on French farms, observing and taking part in the everyday life and the organizations of the rural people of France.

IFYE, a project for young farm people in the United States to live and work on farms in other countries, seeks to further international understanding between rural people.

After a short business meeting, the program will be turned over to Mr. Young. Hosts and hostesses will be the 4-H girls and boys of Flintstone school.

Police Probe False Telegram From Baltimore

Report Of Woman's Death Proved Fake

A "false" telegram received from Baltimore telling an area couple their daughter had been killed, caused the girl's soldier brother to telephone from Japan yesterday.

Events leading to the telephone call yesterday began when Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Elbon, 40 Sharpless Street, Keyser, W. Va., received a telegram from Baltimore Saturday saying their daughter, Mrs. Pauline Trenter, had been killed in an automobile accident. The telegram was signed by a "Elaine White."

Mrs. Elbon and her two sons left the same day for Baltimore where they contacted the Baltimore City Police. Police investigation disclosed that Mrs. Trentor was alive and working at a Baltimore medical center where she was employed.

Mrs. Elbon said last night police were continuing the investigation and thus far had not located any person named Elaine White. At the same time, Mrs. Elbon added, police had questioned a girl suspect but "nothing had come of it."

Meanwhile the Keyser couple had asked the American Red Cross to contact another son, Wayman B. Elbon, with the U. S. Army in Japan. After he was notified that his sister "was dead", Mr. and Mrs. Elbon had to send another telegram that the report of his sister's death was false.

Mrs. Elbon said her son phoned from Japan about 2 a. m. yesterday and she talked to him about three minutes explaining the situation.

Mrs. Elbon added she had no idea who could have dispatched the "false" information but said Baltimore police were still investigating the case.

Change Sought In Liquor Law

Allegany County Retail Liquor Association dealers plan to meet next Tuesday at Annapolis with the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly on a proposed change in the present liquor law which would allow them to remain open until midnight, Eastern Standard Time, when Daylight Savings Time goes into effect next month.

Arrangements have been made with Charles M. See, chairman of the delegation, for a Tuesday meeting and between 50 and 60 dealers are expecting to attend. Petitions were circulated among the dealers this week in an effort to obtain 4,000 signatures.

The change in the liquor law, according to a spokesman for the association, would allow the dealers to make sales until 1 a. m. Daylight Time, during the time DST is in effect, which this year will be from 2 a. m. April 26 through 2 a. m. September 27.

During the five months DST is in effect in the county, the dealers now close at 11 p. m. EST or midnight DST.

Kimble Includes Salary Hikes For Magistrates Among His 30 Senate Bills

New bills introduced into the State Senate by Senator Robert B. Kimble would increase the wages of magistrates and add another deputy sheriff in Allegany County.

The two magistrates in Cumberland would have their salaries hiked from $3,600 to $3,900 annually; Frostburg magistrates from $2,100 to $2,400; and magistrates in Cresaptown, Midland, Mt. The additional deputy sheriff, increasing the total to five, is based on the grand jury's recommendation in 1951, Kimble said, and is included in Senate Bill 424. It would make his annual salary not less than $3,000.

Senator Kimble has either written or helped write 30 measures and as Republican floor leader in the Senate and therefore spokesman for the administration, he also presents bills wanted passed by the GOP administration in a Democratic controlled General Assembly.

A list of the bills follows:

Senate Bill 177—By Kimble and Della—To provide for classification of highways, preparation of long-range road programs with cooperation of the State Roads Commission as well as local three-year programs and to establish local roads standards committees.

Referendum On Sewage Bonds Is Provided By Bill

Measure Ready For Governor's Signature

The House of Delegates last night enacted a bill which would require a referendum before bonds could be issued for the proposed Cumberland Sewage Disposal System.

The measure, Senate Bill 297, sponsored by Senate Minority Leader Robert B. Kimble, will be sent to the governor for his signature.

The bill provides that no bonds be issued under the Allegany County Water and Sewage Authority unless approved by the voters.

One effect of the bill, informed sources said, will be to prevent the State Board of Health from ordering the City of Cumberland to issue bonds for the project, until a referendum is held.

During the last general session of the Assembly, Cumberland was authorized to hold a referendum on a $1,500,000 bond issue to finance the project.

The Mayor and Council refused to place the referendum on the ballot as directed, saying they did not then know how much the system would cost. It turned out to be about $1,480,000, but in the meanwhile construction costs rose.

Shortly after the 1952 election, the Maryland Board of Health ordered the city to proceed with the construction and instituted a suit to force the action. Legal action is still pending, with the state requiring regular progress reports as indication of good faith.

City Completes Emergency Work On Clearwell

Plug Is Placed In Main Line

Emergency repairs to the clearwell area of the city filtration plant were completed yesterday, according to William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light.

The bottom of the concrete clearwell, which stores filtered water at the water plant, dropped eight feet on the night of March 4, dumping thousands of gallons of water in the area.

The accident resulted from a long-standing leak which undermined the storage basin and endangered the new bank of filters being built nearby.

Immediately after the accident, Robert T. Regester, consulting engineer for the city water system, checked the clearwell area and ordered certain emergency work to protect the rest of the system.

Plug Clearwell Line

Crews of the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company, contractor for the $237,000 filter construction job, began the emergency work ordered by Regester.

The work was completed yesterday as crews placed a concrete plug in the main line to the clearwell to protect the line from further damage.

The Hazelwood firm also underpinned a section of the plant between the new filters and the clearwell which had been washed by a huge leak in the 40-year-old clearwell.

Edwards said 150 cubic yards of rock fill were dumped into the hole under the clearwell.

Will Complete Job

The two-week project completed the emergency work ordered by Regester.

City officials are waiting for plans and specifications from Regester for the complete rehabilitation of the damaged portion of the filter system.

City officials say the clearwell may be eliminated when the new bank of 6,000,000 a day filters are in operation and the present 12,000,000 a day filter bank is reconditioned.

The clearwell is a reservoir which was built at the plant to store filtered water and provide constant pressure in lines leading to the city.

It is no longer needed, officials say, since the city has constructed water tanks on high spots of the city.

Activities Scheduled For Cherry Blossom Festival

The nation's capital will offer visitors a five-day round of spectacular pageantry to celebrate the blooming of the world-famous cherry blossom trees this year, according to the schedule of events announced by Frank E. Weakly, 1953 National Cherry Blossom Festival Chairman.

Scheduled for April 8 through 12, when the blossoms are most likely to be at the height of their glory, the festival will get underway with a fashion show in the Statler Hotel on Wednesday, April 8.

Featuring the very latest in springtime fashions, the show is being held for the first time this year.

The 53 state and territorial Cherry Blossom Princesses will have an opportunity to meet their Congressmen on Wednesday evening, April 8, at a reception held in their honor in the Senate Office Building.

An illuminated parade on Thursday evening, April 9, will feature floats, bands and marching units representing all the states in the Union.

One of the 53 young princesses will be thrust into a national spotlight during the Festival Ball Friday night, April 10, when a giant wheel of fortune will select the 1953 National Cherry Blossom Festival Queen.

Weekend activities will bring the festival to a climax with the traditional open-air pageant at the Jefferson Memorial on the edge of the Tidal Basin — the cherry blossom setting. Performances are scheduled for 1:30 p. m. Saturday, April 11, and 2 p. m. Sunday, April 12.

Nationally famous entertainers will appear during the pageant, which is climaxed by the crowning of the Cherry Blossom Queen.

A water show on the Tidal Basin will precede the Saturday and Sunday performances of the pageant, beginning at 10:30 each morning. It will include a spectacular water-skiing exhibition and other aquatic stunts.

The Greater National Capital Committee will arrange hotel accommodations and provide sightseeing information for prospective visitors. Their address is 204 Evening Star Building, Washington 4, D. C.

Parkway Measure Will Go Before House On Monday

Whitworth Foresees Committee Backing

The C&O Canal Parkway measure, strengthened by an overwhelming mandate from the Senate Thursday, will reach the House of Delegates Monday afternoon.

The bill sponsored by Senate Minority Leader Robert B. Kimble authorizes the State Roads Commission to purchase 4,100 acres of private land bordering the 57-mile parkway route between Hancock and Cumberland.

The plan, solidly backed by Western Maryland, will be referred to the House Ways and Means Committee, of which Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., Westernport, is a member.

Delegate Whitworth said last night he will make every effort to get the bill out of the committee with a favorable report.

Much Work Lies Ahead

He reported last night there are indications it will take a great deal of work on the part of Western Maryland to secure action on the Parkway plan.

Sectional differences, which delayed passage of the bill in the Senate, are expected to bring about a spirited fight among the delegates.

As handed to the House, the bill includes two amendments, neither of which is expected to cause serious difficulties.

They limit expenditures for the land acquisition to $350,000 and require Congress to grant easements to the route before construction can begin.

Could Be Started In Year

Delegates are aware that the construction of the parkway has become more vital than ever to the future of Western Maryland as legislators begin to balk at the 12-year construction plan of the State Roads Commission.

One of the compromises being considered is to break up the long-range program into sections—with Western Maryland's share in doubt at present.

The Parkway, however, could be started within a year if it is approved by the General Assembly.

These young ballerinas will appear in the annual Spring Festival at East Side School next week. The photo was snapped during a rehearsal for one of the numbers in the production. Nazarene Church Shows Gains In Annual Report

Substantial gains in nearly every phase of international work by the Church of the Nazarene were recorded in the annual report released by Dr. S. T. Ludwig, general secretary of the denomination.

Nearly $30,000,000 was donated to the church by the membership of the 3,888 established churches in the United States, Canada and the British Isles. Of these 151 churches were organized in the past year.

Membership also climbed since 1951 the report discloses, with a rise to 250,000, a gain of 3.3 per cent.

The Sunday School organizations showed even larger gains, reporting 521,000 enrolled for an increase of 4.3 per cent over the previous year and more than twice as many as listed for church membership.

The church now has 262 missionaries and 950 native workers in 25 foreign countries. Some 52 of these missionaries were commissioned in the past year.

Schute Awarded City Annex Work

Repairs to the top of City Hall Annex will get under way Monday morning.

The contract for the work was awarded yesterday to Alex J. Schute, local roofing contractor, who submitted a low bid of $950. Other bids were $1,600, $2,115 and $3,475.

Bids on the work were asked Monday morning after an inspection showed the ornamental balustrades atop the building were in a dangerous condition and were a threat to pedestrians.

The work includes the removal of the stone balustrades and base from the top of the building, removal of all stone and intermediate parts of the balustrade, resetting the baluster rail, installing copper flashing to protect the top of the stones and replacing mortar in joints.

The driver of the car, W. Perry Shaffer, 430 Kean Terrace, said the child darted in front of his car near the intersection of Hill Top Drive and Prince George Street at about 4 p. m. Shaffer said he swerved to the other side of the street, but was unable to avoid striking the girl. He drove her to the hospital, where she was admitted for X-rays and observation.

Dairy Price Support In Md. To Steady Transition Period

Continuation of dairy price supports at 90 per cent of parity is to "give the industry time to demonstrate to what degree it can solve its own problems," Sacretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson has said.

The decision followed the recommendation of the Dairy Advisory Group, Congressional and farm leaders and others, according to George J. Martin, chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing State Committee.

"Although dairy products from Northeastern United States have been brought under the price support program, Maryland has never had the support program operating within the state," Martin said.

Such price support operations as are needed to make the program effective will be carried out through Government offers to buy butter, cheese, and non-fat dry milk solids. Purchases of butter will be made on a "basing point" method, instead of the formerly used uniform price throughout the country. A drop in the parity formula will reduce the butter price support about two cents per pound.

A "work conference" including farmers and leaders of their organizations, processors, distributors, retailers, and consumers is being called together and each segment of the dairy industry will be asked to assume definite responsibility for a portion of the solution of the diary problems. Agricultural agencies will assist.

Suggestions are that dairy farmers can shift more rapidly to fluid milk sales and away from butterfat; milk companies can move more milk from butter-producing areas into regions needing fluid milk; and retail dairies, stores and consumers can more actively promote the sale of milk and milk products.

Police Probe False Telegram From Baltimore

Report Of Woman's Death Proved Fake

A "false" telegram received from Baltimore telling an area couple their daughter had been killed, caused the girl's soldier brother to telephone from Japan yesterday.

Events leading to the telephone call yesterday began when Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Elbon, 40 Sharpless Street, Keyser, W. Va., received a telegram from Baltimore Saturday saying their daughter, Mrs. Pauline Trenter, had been killed in an automobile accident. The telegram was signed by a "Elaine White."

Mrs. Elbon and her two sons left the same day for Baltimore where they contacted the Baltimore City Police. Police investigation disclosed that Mrs. Trentor was alive and working at a Baltimore medical center where she was employed.

Mrs. Elbon said last night police were continuing the investigation and thus far had not located any person named Elaine White. At the same time, Mrs. Elbon added, police had questioned a girl suspect but "nothing had come of it."

Meanwhile the Keyser couple had asked the American Red Cross to contact another son, Wayman B. Elbon, with the U. S. Army in Japan. After he was notified that his sister "was dead", Mr. and Mrs. Elbon had to send another telegram that the report of his sister's death was false.

Mrs. Elbon said her son phoned from Japan about 2 a. m. yesterday and she talked to him about three minutes explaining the situation.

Mrs. Elbon added she had no idea who could have dispatched the "false" information but said Baltimore police were still investigating the case.

Change Sought In Liquor Law

Allegany County Retail Liquor Association dealers plan to meet next Tuesday at Annapolis with the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly on a proposed change in the present liquor law which would allow them to remain open until midnight, Eastern Standard Time, when Daylight Savings Time goes into effect next month.

Arrangements have been made with Charles M. See, chairman of the delegation, for a Tuesday meeting and between 50 and 60 dealers are expecting to attend. Petitions were circulated among the dealers this week in an effort to obtain 4,000 signatures.

The change in the liquor law, according to a spokesman for the association, would allow the dealers to make sales until 1 a. m. Daylight Time, during the time DST is in effect, which this year will be from 2 a. m. April 26 through 2 a. m. September 27.

During the five months DST is in effect in the county, the dealers now close at 11 p. m. EST or midnight DST.

Senator Kimble has either written or helped write 30 measures and as Republican floor leader in the Senate and therefore spokesman for the administration, he also presents bills wanted passed by the GOP administration in a Democratic controlled General Assembly.

Referendum On Sewage Bonds Is Provided By Bill

Measure Ready For Governor's Signature

The House of Delegates last night enacted a bill which would require a referendum before bonds could be issued for the proposed Cumberland Sewage Disposal System.

The measure, Senate Bill 297, sponsored by Senate Minority Leader Robert B. Kimble, will be sent to the governor for his signature.

The bill provides that no bonds be issued under the Allegany County Water and Sewage Authority unless approved by the voters.

One effect of the bill, informed sources said, will be to prevent the State Board of Health from ordering the City of Cumberland to issue bonds for the project, until a referendum is held.

During the last general session of the Assembly, Cumberland was authorized to hold a referendum on a $1,500,000 bond issue to finance the project.

The Mayor and Council refused to place the referendum on the ballot as directed, saying they did not then know how much the system would cost. It turned out to be about $1,480,000, but in the meanwhile construction costs rose.

Shortly after the 1952 election, the Maryland Board of Health ordered the city to proceed with the construction and instituted a suit to force the action. Legal action is still pending, with the state requiring regular progress reports as indication of good faith.

City Completes Emergency Work On Clearwell

Plug Is Placed In Main Line

Emergency repairs to the clearwell area of the city filtration plant were completed yesterday, according to William J. Edwards commissioner of water and electric light.

The bottom of the concrete clearwell, which stores filtered water at the water plant, dropped eight feet on the night of March 4, dumping thousands of gallons of water in the area.

The accident resulted from a long-standing leak which undermined the storage basin and endangered the new bank of filters being built nearby.

Immediately after the accident, Robert T. Regester, consulting engineer for the city water system, checked the clearwell area and ordered certain emergency work to protect the rest of the system.

Plug Clearwell Line

Crews of the George F. Hazelwood Construction Company, contractor for the $237,000 filter construction job, began the emergency work ordered by Regester.

The work was completed yesterday as crews placed a concrete plug in the main line to the clearwell to protect the line from further damage.

The Hazelwood firm also underpinned a section of the plant between the new filters and the clearwell which had been washed by a huge leak in the 40-year-old clearwell.

Edwards said 150 cubic yards of rock fill were dumped into the hole under the clearwell.

Will Complete Job

The two-week project completed the emergency work ordered by Regester.

City officials are waiting for plans and specifications from Regester for the complete rehabilitation of the damaged portion of the filter system.

City officials say the clearwell may be eliminated when the new bank of 6,000,000 a day filters are in operation and the present 12,000,000 a day filter bank is reconditioned.

The clearwell is a reservoir which was built at the plant to store filtered water and provide constant pressure in lines leading to the city.

It is no longer needed, officials say, since the city has constructed water tanks on high spots of the city.

Five selections by the orchestra are included in the third part of the concert. Among these compositions are My Maryland by Romberg, Stringopation by Rose, Tea for Two by Youmans, Der Rosenkavalier melodies by Richard Strauss and Finlamdia by Sibelius.

Scheduled for April 8 through 12, when the blossoms are most likely to be at the height of their glory, the festival will get underway with a fashion show in the Statler Hotel on Wednesday, April 8.

Featuring the very latest in springtime fashions, the show is being held for the first time this year.
